Relaxing of the water ban expected

WILMINGTON - For the first time since 2003, the Town Crier is not expecting to advise residents of the ongoing outdoor watering ban. With the town's new membership to the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA), a modification of the ban appears imminent.

As reported in the Town Crier last week, Governor Patrick signed legislation last week approving the Town's MWRA membership.

Representative James Miceli reported to selectmen that he pushed the legislation through the House quickly in order to avoid having to pay surcharges on the water.

Thursday, May 21, the Water and Sewer Commission will decide whether to relax the outdoor water ban that has been in place since 2003. Michael Woods, Wilmington Water and Sewer Superintendent will reported-

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

The Girl Scout Moving Co.

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - On a Saturday afternoon in May 1969, some 250 Girl Scouts lined up outside the old Wilmington Public Library. They were all waiting for books.

One might imagine that with that many girls taking out books, the library would soon be cleaned out. And it was, in just four hours. That was why the Girl Scouts were there - to move the entire library collection into the new Wilmington Memorial Library.

The Girl Scouts all carried bags of books from the old library to the new, a distance of maybe 150 yards. The moving project was well-planned and quite successful. The Girl Scouts began their moving job at 1:00 p.m. and were all done by 5:00 p.m.

Coordinating the move were Girl Scout leaders Evelyn Lounsbury, outside the library, and Ruth Filipowicz, inside the old library. Librarian James Leo Michael Connors was in charge at the new library. Adults worked until 7:00 p.m. that night.

Where there are Girl Scouts, one might expect cookies, and that was how the girls were rewarded for their efforts. They weren't given Girl Scout cookies, however, but some donated by Elia's Country Store.

The move only disrupted library service for one day. The new library opened at noon on Monday, May 12, 40 years ago.

MARLBOROUGH - Wilmington High School SADD students have earned the Grand Prize in the "Belt It Out!" statewide safety belt contest sponsored by Massachusetts SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) and MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving). The contest was funded by the Massachusetts Executive Office of Public Safety and Security to raise Massachusetts safety belt usage rates.

The students participating conducted on-campus safety belt observations at the beginning and end of the contest period and showed significant increases in their populations' safety belt usage. In between their surveys, the SADD students implemented a number of interventions aimed to raise awareness and usage of safety belts. For example, at Wilmington High School students were invited to participate in a creative poster campaign.

Their efforts paid off. At Wilmington High School, the number of students wearing safety belts increased 10 percent as a direct result of the group's initiatives. They now have an 80 percent usage rate at their high school - a significantly higher rate than the statewide average of 67 percent.

"Massachusetts has the lowest safety belt rates in the country at 67 percent compared to the national average of 82 percent. We are working to raise belt rates in our communities and ultimately change behavior to reduce injuries and fatalities and save lives," says Julie Nussbaum, Massachusetts Youth Program Director for SADD. "This statewide youth-led prevention initiative engaged community members, parents, younger students, and the media to

Allison Bleier keeps the roof over neighbor's head

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - A local family will be able to stay in their home thanks to a thoughtful young neighbor motivated to make a difference.

The extraordinary actions of one young woman challenges the perception that the negative consequences of a shaky economy are destined to play out. Instead she proved that with the help of a neighbor, circumstances could be improved. Concerned that a local family might lose their home, Allison Bleier decided to take matters into her own hands and the result: a dream come true.

Bleier, 17, a WHS junior, knew of a family having trouble making ends meet last winter. A single mom had just finished school and was trying to start a new business following a divorce. In order to make it all work, she held several jobs. Keeping it all together was tough, and then the tipping point: an injury kept this mother of two from work and put the roof over her children's head in jeopardy.

"I thought about what I could do to make other people's lives easier," said Allison. "I wanted to do something but I didn't know how I could help."

Then she saw a commercial for a contest sponsored by Extreme Makeover, Home Edition.

"Just seeing my neighbor struggle - food, house, and just paying for things her family needs," said Allison. "I didn't want to sit back and see them lose their house so I gave it a shot."

Allison wrote an essay and

by Joyce Brisbois

HOW SAFE IS YOUR 401 (k)?

Let us admit that almost everyone's retirement plan account has fallen sharply in the past year. And they're not likely to grow the way they used to, not for a while. First, the markets have got to come back. Second, thousands of companies have announced that they will not be contributing to the 401 (k)s this year.

But your 401 (k) is safe, protected even if your company goes under. Under federal law, your employer has to keep retirement plan assets in a separate trust. If the firm files for bankruptcy, creditors can't get at your money. The only possible loss - and chances are slight - would be if the company files for bankruptcy before depositing your latest contribution. Check the statement.

Should the company fail, you can roll your 401 (k) into an IRA or into your new employer's plan. Just don't take the money out, especially if you're under 59 1/2. There are substantial penalties, and you lose the tax-deferral advantage.

Keep building your retirement accounts. We'll show you why at need of the recipient - that she told her parents and finally her neighbor.

"I think we were floored that she had done it," said Allison's mother, Peg Bleier. "We had no idea she was doing it, but we weren't surprised she did something."

Allison applied at the national level in mid-February, but found out very quickly that she didn't win that one. Undaunted, she immediately applied to a local version of the contest with television station WCVB, the local ABC affiliate.

Going to her neighbor, to ask her to verify her need for the contest was a humbling moment.

"I didn't know how she would take it, if should would think it was an intrusion," said Allison. In the end, she says her neighbor was "wicked happy."

Following the submission of follow-up paperwork, things were quiet for a while. Then, about a week before they were notified that they won, the Bleier's received a number of phone calls and emails, seeking verification as to how they knew the applicant. Further, a major factor for the award was involvement in community service, something the applicant did not lack.

At one point they were told they were finalists, but they did not know the size of the field. Finally, the call came in to the neighbor who then sent Allison a text message on her phone saying, "We won!"

Allison jumped out of her seat in celebration and started crying a bit too.

"Actually, it was really embarrassing," laughs Allison.

Her anonymous neighbor won $5,000, which she will use toward mortgage payments. Another $5,000 was given to the Wilmington Community Fund, a charity chosen for the award as part of the contest.

"When the Wilmington Community Fund committee members heard we were receiving money because we were chosen as one of the recipients in the Extreme Home makeover contest, to say we were surprised is an understatement. We were delighted!" said Dianna DiGregorio, director of the Fund, in a letter to Allison. "I like to think that we all live to help make life less difficult for others and the money received, because of your generosity, will go toward that goal. Your thoughtfulness and kindness allowed us to help many Wilmington families in need of support."

As for the neighbor? According to Allison's mom, Peg, the woman is "grateful and has a sense of relief. It really takes the pressure off for a little while."

The Crier salutes Allison Bleier for setting a tremendous example for youth and adults alike and sends its best wishes to the recipients of the Extreme Home Makeover contest.

ly offer a recommendation that residents be allowed to use lawn sprinklers on their property one day a week.

As residents know all too well, lawn sprinklers of any kind have been taboo since 2003. Only residents using private wells have been permitted to use sprinklers. Residents have been permitted to utilize hand-held hoses only, but not between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

The vote of the Commission will be reported in next week's Town Crier.

Wilmington lost 60 percent of its pumping capacity when it was been forced to close five of its nine wells in early 2003. The closure was due to the detection of contaminants originating from the Olin Chemical site at 51 Eames Street, which abuts one of Wilmington's key aquifers.

Questions and answers concerning Automated External Defibrillators

What is an AED?

An Automated External Defibrillator (AED) is a computerized medical device. It can check a person's heart rhythm, recognize a rhythm that requires a shock and advise the rescuer when a shock is needed. An AED uses voice prompts, lights and text messages to tell the rescuer the steps to take. AEDs are very accurate and easy to use. With a few hours of training, anyone can learn to operate an AED safely.

Why is an AED important?

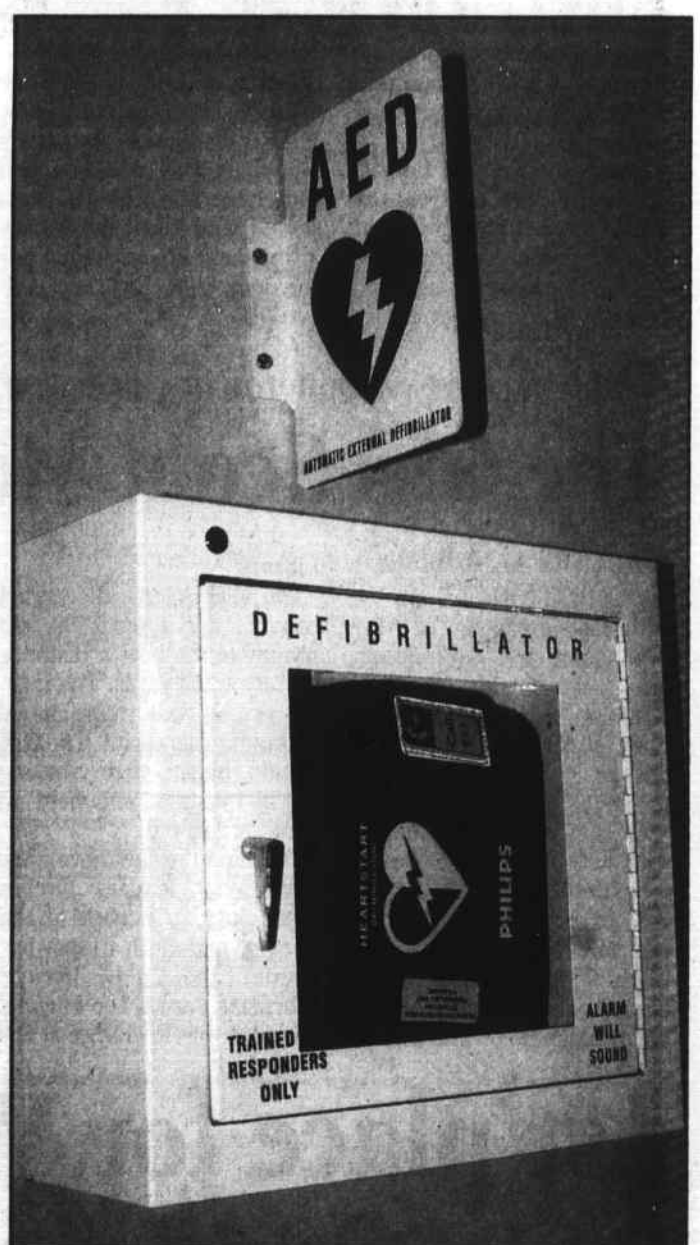

Sudden cardiac arrest accounts for at least 350,000 deaths each year in the United States and some authorities believe the number is much higher. Cardiac arrest results from a defect in the electrical impulses that control the heart's rhythm. It is not a synonym for heart attacks that are usually caused by blockage of the veins and arteries leading to and from the heart. The analogy is that cardiac arrest is an electrical defect whereas heart attacks result from problems with the plumbing. People who suffer heart attacks often remain conscious during and after the attack and they are able to breathe on their own. Cardiac arrest victims lose consciousness, stop breathing and their hearts beat erratically.

What is Public Access to Defibrillation or PAD?

Public access to defibrillation or PAD means making AEDs available in public and/or private places where large numbers of people gather. The American Heart Association supports placing AEDs in targeted public areas such as sports arenas, gated communities, office complexes, doctor's offices, shopping malls, airports, gyms, schools, etc.

Who can use an AED?

Anyone currently trained in Heartsaver CPR through the American Heart Association or American Red Cross may operate an AED. Training is renewable every two years. Heartsaver CPR Courses are usually available at local hospitals and some town recreation departments. You may also contact Judy Baggs, the Town Nurse, for information on the next CPR class offered through the Wilmington Board of Health @ Email: Phn@town.wilmington.ma.us or Phone: 978-658-4298.

Are there any AEDs in Wilmington Schools?

There are currently four AEDs in the Wilmington Schools:

♥ One in Wilmington Middle School foyer - donated by parents, staff & students

♥ Three at Wilmington High School Locations:

- 1) Athletic Trainer - donated by the Touchdown Club
- 2) Auditorium - donated by the Essential Health Services Grant
- 3) Gym foyer - donated by the Sons of Italy

Letter to the editor

Warm thanks, from Zero Waste Day

Dear Editor:
The organizers of Tewksbury's Zero Waste Day extend our thanks to all of the donors and the many community supporters that made Saturday's event a huge success. Our goal of 150 cars was far exceeded with more than 400 donors driving thru our drop-off loop in the High School parking lot. The eleven participating charities were thrilled with the quality of the donations of everything from clothing to baby gear, furniture to building supplies, and (almost) everything in between.
We would like to especially thank the following community supporters: Allied Waste for the new truck/toter demo (and all of their giveaways); Wicked Cheesy, Donna's Donuts, and Dunkin Donuts for feeding the volunteers; Staples and Reid Graphics for poster and flier printing; Jayne Miller for the use of her campaign signs which were disguised (and reused!) as ZWD signage; Girl Scout Troop 60485 for the creation of the large lawn sign at the foot of the HS driveway; The Mother Connection for staffing the Project Home Again charity table (so that the charity reps could observe their Sabbath on Saturday); and the Tewksbury School Dept and DPW for use of the parking lot and traffic cones. Zero Waste Day was an excellent example of the community coming together to offer our support to neighbors in need.

The Recycling Committee and Congregational Church welcome your feedback (both positive and constructive) so that we can continually improve upon this event. To read a listing of results, see a slideshow of photos, or offer your comments, please visit the ZWD website at www.tewksburycc.org/zerow asteday.

Water Witches

I am not a believer. There are, however, many believers in New England and I suspect one or two in Wilmington. The most devout gather once a year in Danville, Vermont to espouse their faith...their faith in dowsing. Dowser are individuals who claim to be able to locate underground water using a forked stick, L-shaped metal rods or a simple pendulum.

I thought about dowsers as I listened to a resident at the Annual Town Meeting suggest during the debate to join the MWRA, that there was plenty of open land in North Wilmington and we should have no trouble finding water there. Oh, if it was only that easy, life would be wonderful. Unfortunately, finding an adequate quantity (minimum of 500 gallons per minute) of good quality water involves many factors including geology, topography, hydrology, vegetation, potential sources of contamination, and federal and state regulations.

The wells in Wilmington were found over the years using standard well development techniques, not an esoteric folk practice. The wells are constructed in sand and gravel deposits at an average depth of about 50 feet. The wells are not drilled several hundred feet into bedrock as are most of the private irrigation wells in town.

Although I do not subscribe to the techniques used by the dowser fraternity, they do have an interesting history. Some dowsers will tell you that their methods date to biblical times. They point to a chapter in Exodus when Moses was instructed to "take in your hand the rod with which you struck the Nile and you shall strike the rock and water shall come out of it." They believe Moses used the rod as a divining rod to show the elders where to find water.

In Colonial America, dowsing became known as "water witching" because of the preference for witch hazel twigs. Even during those times, dowsing was controversial. Some land owners, concerned about what their neighbors would think, wanted the dowser to work only at night.

There are many anecdotal stories about dowsers finding water. Some dowsers claim that the strength of the movement of the twig or rods indicates the amount of water that could be expected. Some say that they can also determine the depth to water. Of course we never here about a dowser's failures. Controlled studies have found that dowsers do no better than chance in finding water.

About 15 years ago, I met a dowser who quickly figured out that I wasn't having any of part of his magic show. He proceeded to give me a lecture on dowsing and then a demonstration. He was a gruff, plain talking retired salesman. He told me in no uncertain terms that he would make me a convert. As we walked across his open field, he held his forked stick tightly and his eyes were squinted either from concentration or the hot afternoon sun. He walked slowly across the field watching the tip of his stick waiting for it to bend toward the ground. I walked dutifully behind at a safe distance and watched this showman do his thing. Eureka! He said he had found a spot. He now took his dowsing to another level. He started asking his forked stick questions...is water 10 feet down? 20 feet? 30 feet? The stick was supposed to rotate at the correct depth. Can you picture this...two men in the middle of a field and one of them is talking to a stick. Thankfully You Tube wasn't around at the time! My dowser friend told me that water was 30 feet below where we were standing. Not wanting to be a rude guest, I didn't have the heart to tell him that was not unexpected since there was a babbling brook nearby and we were about 30 feet above it.

Seeing that I was not convinced, the dowser gave me a book on the subject for my education and reading pleasure. One of the theories to explain the movement of the forked stick or metal rods is an electromagnetic current moving from the ground through the body; another theory centers on paranormal forces. (May the force be with you.) A more plausible explanation is muscular movement due to subconscious suggestion that is already in the mind of the dowser. Based on prior knowledge (my dowser friend had a definite home field advantage), experience or visual clues, a dowser knows what to expect.

While the techniques used by water witches and dowsers are quaint and entertaining, they are not a valuable tool for finding municipal water supplies. Finding water is not the issue; finding any adequate quantity of good quality water is paramount. And to do that, hydrogeologists and engineers are the best option.

This weekend at the Book Store Next Door

WILMINGTON - The Friends' of the Wilmington Memorial Library's Book Store Next Door - to the Wilmington Memorial Library - 183 Middlesex Avenue, will be open this Saturday 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and Sunday, 12:00 to 3:00 p.m., as usual, to help you make the most of your holiday weekend.

This weekend kicks off the summer earlier than usual, and hopefully the weather will be fine. Regardless, the staff is thinking summertime at the book store. Starting in June, the Book Store Next Door will be open Wednesday evenings, 4:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. through July and August. The staff is setting aside as many books appearing on the summer reading list as come in and, will continue to do so all summer.

You have a few weeks yet to prep for end of school, vacations, Father's Day, and there are books to suit all occasions in the store's three-plus areas of browsing. There are plenty of gardening books to help you enhance your spring plantings. Time to take on a new sport? How about a new pet? Housebreaking a puppy is much easier this time of year. Whatever your interest, something is bound to catch your eye, and if your eyes aren't as all-seeing as they could be, the large print list has just been refreshed.

Thanks to all for your continuous donations. Just a reminder: donations are only accepted during store hours, and no need to inventory them - they just need to be free of mold/mildew. Call if the times do not work for you and accommodations will be arranged. Please contact Leslie Dietrich, 978.657.6536 or lesd4@verizon.net for volunteer opportunities or questions. Many thanks for your continued support - shopping and donating.

Winchester Hospital Physician Group recognized with grant from Harvard Pilgrim Health Care

Grant will be used to foster healthier lifestyles in children

WINCHESTER — The Highland Healthcare Associates Independent Physicians Association (IPA) of Winchester is one of 14 provider groups throughout Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire that has been awarded a 2009 Quality Grant from Harvard Pilgrim Health Care to improve clinical quality and patient safety. The Highland Healthcare Associates IPA, a not-for-profit physician organization with 350 physician members, is affiliated with Winchester Hospital.

Harvard Pilgrim Health Care's 10th annual Quality Grants Program funds physician group initiatives that help local physician practices explore innovative strategies and programs to improve the quality and efficiency of patient care.

The Highland Healthcare Associates IPA will use this grant to fund "Weigh the Options: Choosing the Path to a Healthy Childhood," a comprehensive program to help prevent and reduce childhood obesity. The Highland Healthcare Associates IPA and Winchester Hospital's Community Health Institute will collaborate with physicians who treat pediatric patients to achieve the goals of this grant-supported program. Program components include nutritional support and counseling, exercise classes and family education. This is the seventh grant awarded to the Highland Healthcare Associates IPA since the inception of Harvard Pilgrim Health Care's Quality Grants Program. Previous grants have been used to fund projects such as Comprehensive Diabetes Care, Anticoagulation Management and Promotion of Electronic Prescribing for the IPA physicians.

"We are thrilled to once again have the support of Harvard Pilgrim Health Care in funding this most recent quality grant, which will allow us to develop and implement a comprehensive program to impact childhood obesity. Our hope is that any success will eventually impact adult obesity, one of the major challenges facing our healthcare system today," said Dr. Don Druga, medical director of Highland Healthcare Associates IPA.

Harvard Pilgrim Health Care's Quality Grants Program has distributed more than $12 million to fund more than 155 projects since its inception 10 years ago. Physician leaders in Harvard Pilgrim Health Care's network helped select the winning proposals from more than 20 submissions. Quality Grant review criteria include a well-defined improvement opportunity, innovation in providing care, project plan design and sustainability. The results of the grant programs are shared with other Harvard Pilgrim Health Care providers so their "best practices" can benefit a broader patient population.

"Harvard Pilgrim is proud to enter its 10th year of the Quality Grants Program with another strong round of projects that will improve the way health care is delivered at practices throughout New England," said Dr. Roberta Herman, Harvard Pilgrim Health Care's chief medical officer and senior vice president. "The grants we are funding this year will focus on increasing preventive care, ensuring medication safety, coordinating patient care and managing chronic diseases. Many of the projects will be supported by the use of health information technology such as electronic medical records, which enables safer, more efficient care."

Your Two Cents...

I would like to thank the Wilmington Police Department for providing the RAD program. It is an amazing program that teaches women how to defend themselves from an attacker.

I have just finished this program and found it to be incredible. I now feel more able to handle a situation, if I should find myself faced with that. I highly recommend that all women in Wilmington take this course the next time it is offered. I would like to thank Chief Begonis for getting funding for the program and Sgt. Ahern, Officer Moon, Officer Alpers, and Officer Brisbois for the amazing job they did instructing us and teaching us. I am a much more confident woman because of you all.

Thanksgiving is a day when we pause to give thanks for the things we have.

Memorial Day is a day when we pause to give thanks to the people who fought for the things we have.

Remember all the military heroes who gave up all of their tomorrows so you can have yours.

I would like to remind all veterans' to show their pride and to wear their service organization uniforms, hats and shirts and to display their medals at the ceremonies this weekend.

Wilmington

As another Registered Nurse and Wilmington resident, I was delighted to read the May 13, 2008 Town Crier and learn about the recognition awarded to Mary Aruda, PhD, RN, PNP-BC as a "Distinguished Nurse Practitioner of the Year." At a time when the news is full of stories about workers who abuse the system, it's gratifying to read about someone who serves others and serves as a role model for all. Congratulations Mary!

Locals graduate St. John's Prep

DANVERS - St. John's Preparatory School held its 99th Commencement exercises on Sunday, May 17 at 11:00 a.m. Headmaster Albert J. Shannon, Ph.D. awarded diplomas to 281 seniors during an outdoor ceremony held on the school's campus. A Xaverian Brothers sponsored secondary school for young men, St. John's was founded in 1907.

In his remarks, Dr. Shannon praised the graduates for all they had achieved during their years at St. John's and said, "No longer do we challenge you to live up to the expectations of others; we can now challenge others to follow your leadership. In our eyes and in our hearts, you have moved from followers to leaders, from exuberant boys to vibrant young men."

With scores of proud families, friends and faculty gathered for the ceremony, members of the graduating class were recognized with awards for academic, extracurricular and athletic achievement during Commencement. The award recipients included John J. Corbett of Manchester, who received the Valedictorian Medal, Andrew P. Hollis of Beverly, who received the Salutatorian Medal, and Patrick M. Lane of Beverly, who received the Xaverian Award, given annually to the graduating senior who best epitomizes the values and traditions of Xaverian education.

John Klein of Peabody delivered the Commencement address. He began his career at St. John's in 1983, and in addition to teaching and serving as chair of the English Department, he coaches track. In December 2008, his colleagues honored Klein by presenting him with the prestigious Ryken Award, the highest honor given by a Xaverian Brothers sponsored school to a member of the faculty or staff.

Samuel T. Byrne of Manchester was honored with the Distinguished Alumnus Award during Commencement. A 1983 graduate of St. John's, Byrne has served on the school's Board of Trustees since 2000. During his tenure, he has chaired the Development Committee and led successful initiatives to strengthen the school's endowment, focusing his efforts on tuition assistance to ensure that a Prep education continues to be accessible and affordable for students, regardless of family circumstances. In addition, Byrne and his wife, Tracey, spearheaded the school's 95th Anniversary celebration in 2002, and they have served on the Headmaster's Council and the Centennial Executive Council. He is a graduate of Tufts University and serves as treasurer of the Board of Trustees at the Peabody Essex Museum in Salem and as president of the Board of Trustees of the Brookwood School in Manchester, where he and his wife live with their three sons.

Winchester Hospital urges awareness, prevention and perspective regarding Swine Flu

WINCHESTER - There has been a lot of attention in the media about Influenza A/H1N1, or swine flu.

Why is everyone talking about H1N1 flu?

H1N1 flu is a new or "novel" influenza virus that is spreading quickly. The World Health Organization (WHO) has raised the Pandemic Alert level to 5: Widespread Human Infection. Flu vaccine made last year does not work against this virus, and humans do not have immunity to this illness.

However, recent news reports about H1N1 flu are less alarming than initial reports from the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) and Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH). Officials urge continued close monitoring of the virus, but the DPH and CDC have modified many of their initial recommendations including testing protocols. In fact, because of the "relatively mild course" of the disease, testing should now only be performed on those with the most severe respiratory illness and those at highest risk of complications from influenza. Rapid flu diagnostic tests should not be performed on all individuals with mild illness.

Winchester Hospital is taking an active approach to preventing the spread of H1N1 flu by following prudent infection prevention strategies.

What steps can I take to protect myself and my family?

It is important to use common sense. Know the symptoms of influenza: sudden fever, aches and pains, headache, chills, sore throat, sudden dizziness, cough, head and lung congestion, fatigue and diarrhea/nausea. H1N1 flu cannot be transmitted by eating pork or pork products.

Precautions for all

Remember, you should take everyday actions to stay healthy.

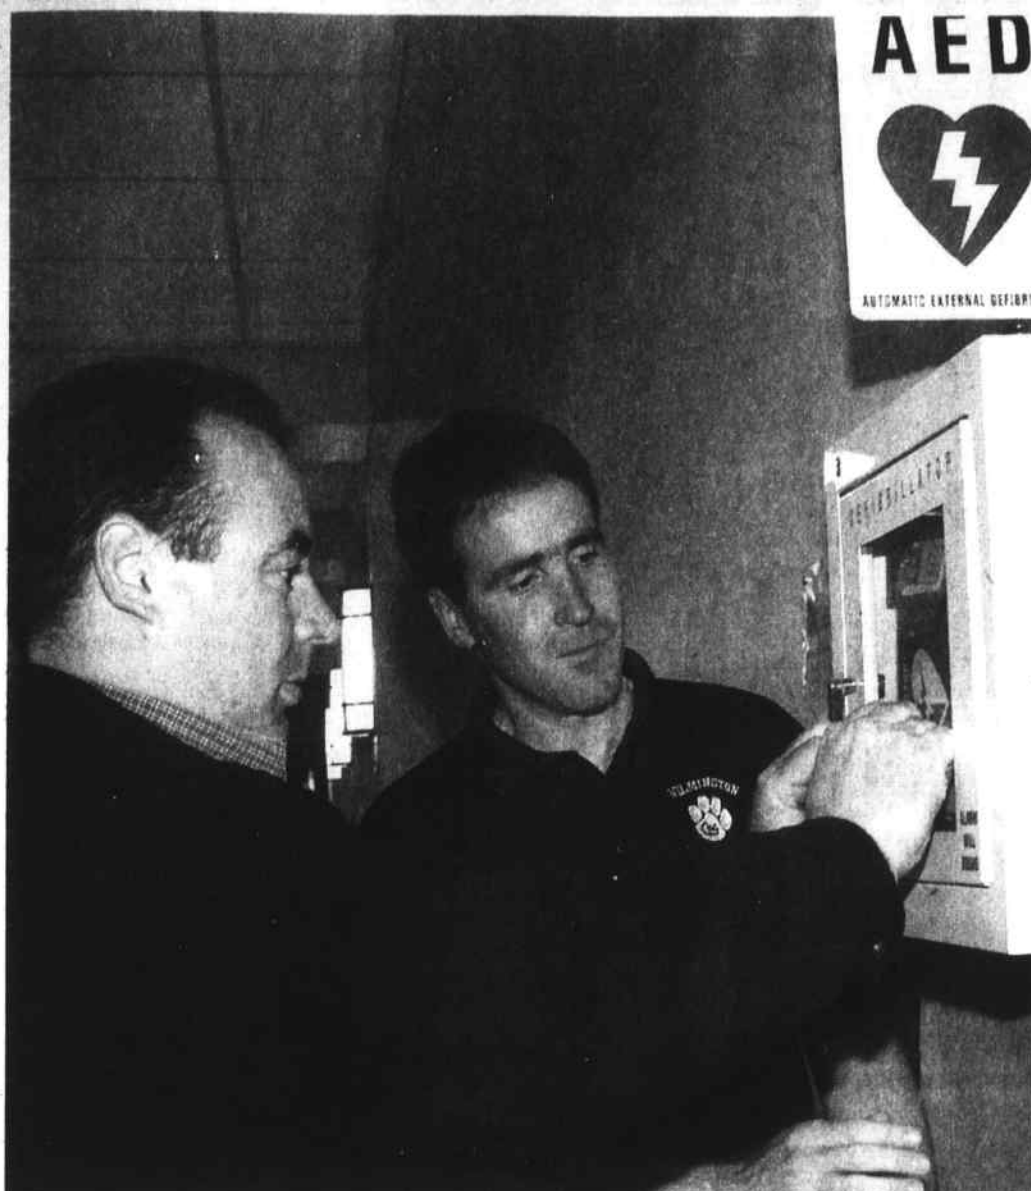

- Eat right and get enough rest.
- Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw the tissue in the trash after you use it.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Germs spread that way.
- Avoid any person who is coughing, sneezing or has a respiratory illness.
- You shouldn't go to work and children shouldn't go to school with symptoms. CDC recommends staying home and limiting contact with others to keep from infecting them.
- Wash hands with soap and water for 15 to 20 seconds or use hand sanitizer or wipes, especially when in public.

Winchester Hospital

remains in contact with the DPH and will keep the public informed as new information becomes available.

This program is made possible by a federal grant from the Library Services and Technology Act through the Institute of Museum and Library Services and is administered by the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners.

Children's Program Book Discussion for Ages 9 & Older

Friday, June 5, 3:30 pm
Ereth's Birthday by Avi, a title in the Dimwood Forest series, will be the book of discussion for this informal, drop-in event. Feeling neglected on his birthday, Ereth, the cantankerous old porcupine, sets out looking for his favorite treat, salt, and instead finds himself acting as "mother" to three young foxes. Copies of the book may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098. A door prize and snack will be provided by the Friends of the Library.

FARMINGTON, ME - Of the 468 members of the University of Maine at Farmington 2009 graduating class, approximately 416 graduates marched in the University's 156th Commencement ceremony this morning, Saturday, May 16, on the UMF campus of those 416 on was from Tewksbury: Keith Mahoney, received his B.S. in Secondary Social Science Education.

Delivering the keynote address was Naomi Schalit, national award-winning journalist and opinion page editor of the Kennebec Journal and Morning Sentinel. In her keynote address, Schalit encouraged graduates to share what they believe through accurate language and honest communication as they make their way in the world. Graduating senior Katharine Rose Gergosian, of Topsham, gave the student address, and Richard Pattenaude, University of Maine System chancellor, and Jean Flahive, board of trustee member, wished the graduates well. Theodora J. Kalikow, UMF president, and Allen Berger, UMF vice president for academic affairs, conferred the degrees.

According to data from the U.S. Department of Education, UMF leads the way in graduation rates among public universities in Maine and is in the upper tier among the 25 member institutions of the Council of Public Liberal Arts. "We are so proud of the success of our graduates," said Kalikow. "UMF students leave here ready to enter the workforce or graduate school with degrees in hand. Our graduates go on to contribute to their states' economies, communities and families, and 80 percent of them remain to live and work in Maine."

Ann Arbor, gifted teacher, poet and award-winning photographer, along with her husband, John Rosenwald, international scholar, poet and dramatist, were each recipients of an honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters at the UMF ceremony. Together, they have shared their love of poetry and passion for international culture with the community and the region.

increase safety belt usage rates. And we are very pleased with the results."

Twelve schools across the Commonwealth, including one elementary school, participated in the first-ever Belt It Out! competition. Other notable efforts were put forth by Weymouth High School and Swampscott High School. Weymouth HS is the first runner up in the contest, having increased their belt usage by 8 percent. Swampscott is being recognized for Communications/Media Excellence by MADD and SADD.

All three schools will receive recognition from Massachusetts SADD and MADD for their work on this important issue.

Research shows there is still a lot to change.

Massachusetts teen drivers buckled up at a rate of 69 percent - up from 57 percent in 2004.

Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death nationwide of 15- to 20-year-olds.

Of the 5,500 teen occupants who die in motor vehicle crashes each year, approximately two thirds are not wearing safety belts.

High school students overwhelmingly say their parents are or will be the biggest influence on how they drive. However, according to the 2004 teen driving study conducted by SADD and Liberty Mutual Group, one third (31 percent) say their parents do not wear safety belts. Research shows that lap/shoulder safety belts, when used properly, reduce the risk of fatal injury to front-seat passenger car occupants by 45 percent and the risk of moderate-to-critical injury by 50 percent.

"By increasing knowledge about the dangers of driving without a safety belt, we hope to change societal norms, individual attitudes, and behaviors about traffic safety and to make safety belt use a priority among teens and community members," said Sheila Burgess, Director, Highway Safety Division.

To present students with prizes, SADD and MADD representatives will be visiting Wilmington High School on Tuesday, May 19. Visits to Swampscott and Weymouth will be scheduled at a later time. For more information about these visits, contact Julie Nussbaum at 508-481-3568 or jnussbaum@sadd.org.

SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) is a national peer leadership organization dedicated to preventing destructive decisions, particularly underage drinking, other drug use, risky and impaired driving, teen violence, and suicide. There are more than 300 SADD chapters in Massachusetts. For more information about SADD or how to start a SADD chapter, please contact Massachusetts SADD at 877-SADD-INC (723-3462) or info@sadd.org.

Founded in 1980, MADD's mission is to stop drunk driving, support the victims of this violent crime and prevent underage drinking. The MADD Youth In Action program partners youth and adults to work on community-based projects aimed at reducing access of alcohol to underage youth. Young people are very much an integral part of the mission and MADD has successfully become a powerful force in the prevention of underage drinking. To find out more about MADD and Youth In Action, please call 800-633-6233 or visit www.madd.org.

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

The Girl Scout Moving Co.

helped out, moving the furniture. David Churchill and Paul Morrissey did the lugging, and Scoutmaster Phil Andrews drove a truck, loaned by Gildart Chevrolet. The old library was so small, though, that there wasn't much furniture to move. There was a desk, a filing cabinet, the old reading table, several chairs, and a few other items.

The library also declared a fine holiday, forgiving fines on any and all overdue books, but only if they were returned to the new library.

The new library was dedicated two weeks after it opened, on May 26, Memorial Day. The Girl Scouts had a special role in the impressive ceremony. Gayle Case recited "What the American Flag Means to Me," and then raised the flag, assisted by Karen Ballou and Karen Olson. The flag had been presented to the Girl Scouts a month before by Sen. Edward Brooke when the girls visited the U.S. Capitol in Washington.

A week before the move, a cornerstone had been set. Inside was a Polaroid picture of the cornerstone ceremony, taken by Capt. Larz Neilson. There were also some color slides of the old library, taken by Carl Gubellini, past chairman of the Board of Library Trustees; copies of the 1967 and 1968 town reports, and a copy of the May 1, 1969 edition of the Town Crier.

The old library had been a cozy place. But over the years, it had become too cozy. Libraries are always acquiring new books, and a small library often must discard a book in order to add a book.

The town's first library was founded by Charles Swain, father of the Swain sisters for whom the Swain School is named. For many years the library was located in the building now known as the Fourth of July headquarters. Many people remember the librarian of the 1950's and 1960's, Clara Chipman. Esther Hall had preceded her, in the early 1950's.

The Board of Library Trustees had fought for many years to build a new library. One challenge was to find a location. When St. Thomas Church built a new church, the old church became available. Then came the question of should the old church be used as the library. After some architectural studies, the trustees decided against that. A library building must carry a tremendous weight load, and the church structure was not suited to that purpose.

The Permanent Building Committee lined up an architect from East Boston who had done two schools in Wilmington. Then a Boston newspaper named him as the most political architect in Massachusetts. And he had never designed a library. The library trustees fought for a library architect, and eventually prevailed. A Norwood firm, Korslund, LeNormand & Quann, Inc. was chosen to design the building. It was built by the Anthony T. Scanzillo Co., Inc. of Dedham at a cost of $374,800.

Giannattasio vs Ippolito

Town Crier Sports Correspondents Mike Giannattasio and Mike Ippolito debate which is the bigger disappointment, the Celtics or the Bruins losing their respective playoff series.

GIANNATTASIO: Mike, I don't know what you think, but the Bruins definitely had a much more disappointing end to their season than the Celtics did. Although both teams were eliminated from their semifinal round this past week, the Celtics can at least go home knowing that they played with heart throughout the playoffs as they played the entire postseason without Kevin Garnett, one of the most important figures as to why the Celtics raised a 17th banner in the rafters on opening night.

The Bruins, on the other hand, lost in another game seven to the Carolina Hurricanes last Thursday after finishing the regular season with the best record in the East as 53-19-10. I don't know about you, but I am absolutely tired of the Bruins choking in the playoffs when everyone expects them to win.

IPPOLITO: Don't get me wrong, if I had a brick in my hand, I would have thrown it through the TV when Scott Walker of all people scored the game winning goal in overtime. But with the news in recent days of all of the Bruins that were playing with some pretty severe injuries, like David Krejci with a hip injury, Phil Kessel playing with a torn rotator cuff and torn labrum in his shoulder and most amazingly Mark Recchi playing with fractured ribs and playing Game 7 the day after having surgery to remove kidney stones, I am willing to give them a break.

Also, although the Bruins played poorly in a few games in the Hurricanes series, at least they did not mail it in for Game 7 the way the Celtics did. Injuries or not, it is game 7, at least act like you want to be there.

GIANNATTASIO: There is no way you can blame the Bruins losing Game 7 on player injuries. After finishing the regular season with the second best NHL record, many people, including ESPN analyst Barry Melrose, had the Bruins winning the Cup. It looked like that was going to happen too as the Bruins swept the Canadiens 4-0 in the quarterfinals.

For the first time in decades, fans in Boston envisioned Zdeno Chara and company holding the Stanley Cup trophy. It didn't happen, as the Bruins lost the series and frustrated their fans once again. This is the third time since 2001-2002 that the Bruins won their Conference and ended up losing a Game 7.

The Celtics, not the Bruins, should be the team using injuries as an excuse for not being able to advance to the Conference Finals. If the Celtics had a healthy Garnett, they would currently be playing LeBron James and the Cleveland Cavaliers.

IPPOLITO: No doubt the Bruins were a disappointment after the regular season they had. But think about what your expectations were for them when the season started. Did you even come close to envisioning that they would have the top overall seed in the Eastern Conference? Even as the playoffs approached most fans and media were saying that the main thing for them was to win that first round to get that monkey off their back. Well, they did that.

As for the Celtics, if they had lost to Cleveland, I would have accepted the Garnett and Leon Powe excuse. But the fact is they are better than Orlando, even without those guys. And they had them. They led Game 6 by ten points in the second half, and after blowing that lead they had home court for Game 7 and once again could not get it done. When the defending NBA champs go out in Round 2, it is a huge disappointment.

GIANNATTASIO: I totally disagree with you. As the playoffs approached, I think most fans expected the Bruins to go deep into the playoffs, and some people even thought that it would be a disappointing season if they didn't make it to the Finals.

Also, there is no way the Celtics are a better team than Orlando when they have Garnett sidelined. The Magic should have taken the series easily, and the only reasons why the Celtics won games five and six is because they played like Warriors and never quit.

The disappointment comes on the end of the Bruins, not the beloved Celtics. The Bruins had much more talent than Carolina with Tim Thomas, Chara, Michael Ryder, Phil Kessel, Patrice Bergeron, and yet still lost to the Hurricanes. It was just another typical disappointing season for the Bruins, as they let their fans down once again.

IPPOLITO: I think expecting a run to the Stanley Cup finals from a team with hardly any playoff experience was a bit much. Excluding last year's seven game series with the Canadiens, a lot of these guys had zero playoff experience. The problem is we (and they) were spoiled by the first round sweep of the dreaded Canadiens. Remember, this Hurricanes team was one of the best teams in the East during the second half of the season, and they are also just three years removed from winning the Cup with a lot of this same group, including super goalie Cam Ward.

The Celtics, on the other hand, lost to a team that has never won anything, a team that shot 36 percent from the floor and 55 percent from the free throw line in Game 6, but still managed to win, because the Celtics turned the ball over 22 times. 22 times? From the NBA champs? Garnett or no Garnett, this series was there for the taking and the Celtics simply did not take it.

Wilmington High seniors Stephanie Woods, left, and Ivy Co, right, are not only a terrific doubles tandem for the Wildcat girls tennis team, but are also very good friends. The two of them have been a huge factor in the team's success, helping the program reach the state tournament for the second straight season. (photo by JoeBrownphotos.com)

Great friends, Great doubles team, great season

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

When the Wilmington High girls tennis team was struggling with a 2-7 record earlier this season, they clearly needed to turn the season around as soon as possible and they looked to their senior leaders, particularly their captains lead the way back to a winning season.

After winning five of their last six matches the Wildcats brought a 7-8 record into their final match of the season on Tuesday afternoon, and with a victory over Amesbury would qualify for the state tournament. Among the biggest reasons for their remarkable turnaround has been the play of the first doubles team of senior captains Ivy Co and Steph Woods who have been outstanding all season, but have stepped up their game and their leadership even more in the latter half of the season.

They, along with fellow tri-captain Erin McMahon have been key cogs in the team's second half surge.

"I would like to say what a pleasure it has been to Coach Ivy, Steph and Erin," Wilmington coach Kevin Welch said. "The three of them have played a huge role in the turn around in the program. Without the effort they put into helping the tennis program succeed none of the success would have been possible."

Co and Woods have earned a 10-5 record this season heading into their final match after going 12-4 last season. They have loved being a part of the turnaround, although both credit the entire team with the team now playing so well.

"It was just teamwork," Woods said. "We just never gave up and we all worked really hard. All of the upperclassmen all contributed.

Erin and Ivy are awesome and all of the older kids help the younger kids. Everyone just keeps improving."

Co added, "As captains we didn't do anything special, we just cheered the rest of the team on and let them know they were doing well even when they were losing. It was really the whole team together doing that."

As for Welch, he feels that his senior captains are being far too modest.

"Ivy and Steph's attitude and leadership have been a key to the turn around of the team," Welch said. "We (the team) were 2-7 and a couple of losses from just playing for pride. They are 5-0 since that point and the team is still playing to try to qualify for the state tournament."

When Welch talks about Co and Woods helping to turn the team around, he is not just talking about this season. The pair have been with the team since freshmen when the team could only win a two matches and then as sophomores when they went 6-10. They were also thrilled to be part of last season's great success when they went 10-7 and earned their first tournament berth in team history.

"That was so much fun. It was awesome to be part of that," Welch said. "I never would have thought freshman year that we could make it as far as we did. I can't believe we have the chance to make it again after the way the season started."

Co knew the team had potential heading into last season, but even she was surprised with the strides she and her teammates made in just one season.

"After going 6-10 the year before, I thought we would be somewhat better, but I did not know we would be that good. It was really cool to be part of that," Co said. "We all just pulled together and that allowed us to be even better than we thought we could be."

Of course neither season would have been as successful without the efforts of the Wildcats top doubles team and they are only getting better. While they are certainly improving as individual players with the experience they have gained, they also continue to improve as a pair. The chemistry they have developed over the past two seasons is one of their biggest assets to their success at this point in their careers.

"It's really important to have good chemistry with your partner," Co said. "We are friends outside the court

Qualify for tournament again Amazing turnaround continues for tennis team

Just a couple of weeks ago, it did not seem possible, but after picking up a 5-0 victory on Tuesday afternoon over Cape Ann League rival Amesbury the Wilmington High girls tennis team has secured a spot in the Division 3 North State Tournament. With the win, the Wildcats finished the regular season with a record of 8-8 and will await their first round opponent.

Just a couple of weeks back the Wildcats were struggling along with a 2-7 record, but a frantic final push in the second half of the season put them in position to secure a spot in the tournament and on Tuesday, they made the most of their opportunity.

"The girls played with a lot of confidence," Wilmington coach Kevin Welch said. "They knew the win would qualify for us for states and they were not going to let the opportunity slip away."

Senior captain Erin McMahon scored a 6-4, 6-0 victory in first singles, while junior Jessica Burke cruised to a 6-1, 6-1 win in second doubles.

"Erin played well and finished strong against a girl she struggled against the week before," Welch said. "Jessica got the ball rolling for us. When she got the win I knew we were in good shape."

Senior Jackie Mailey won a thriller in third singles with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 comeback victory.

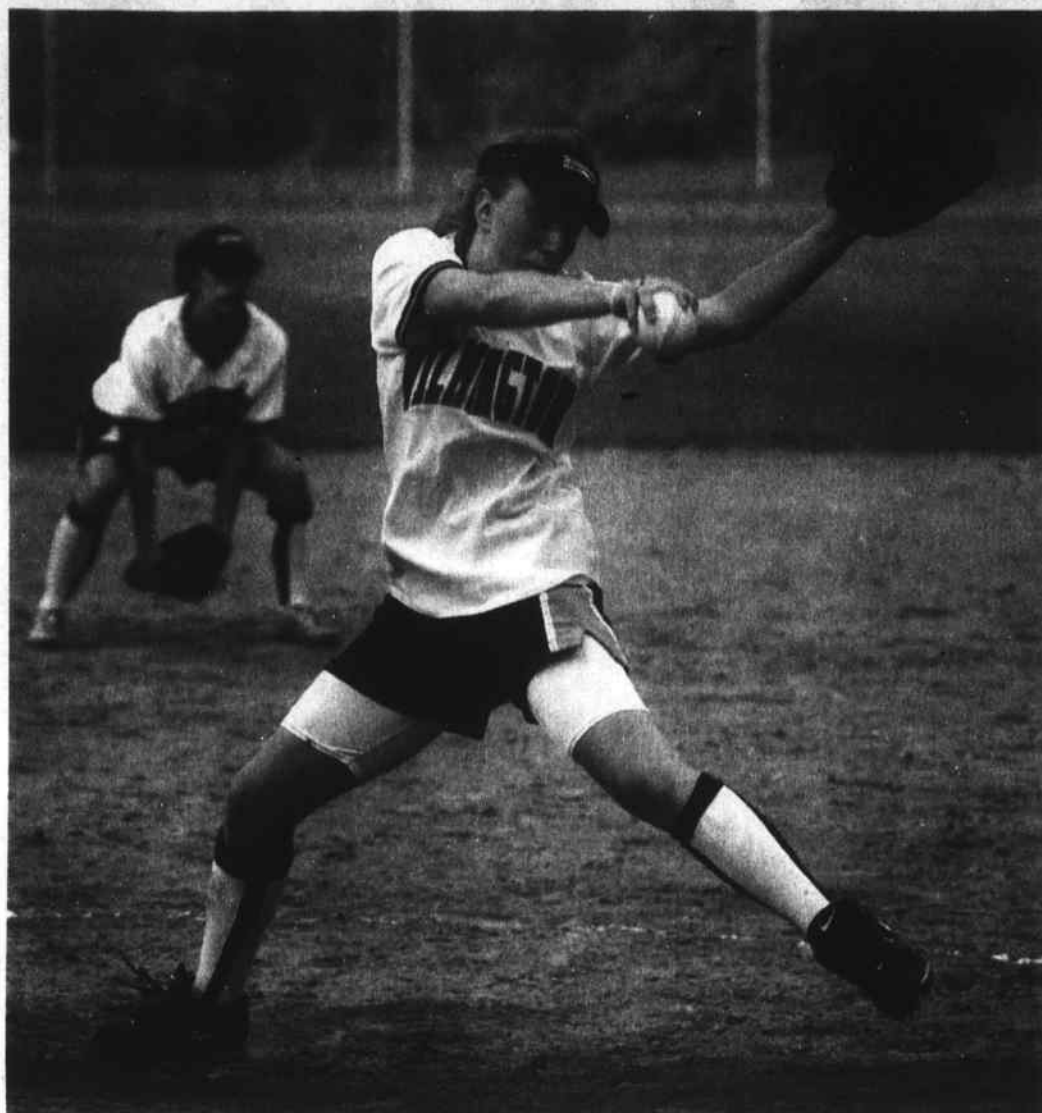

"Jackie was down 0-3 in the third set came back and won the set 6-3," Welch said. "Having the maturity of a senior player at third singles is a big advantage. Jackie does not get rattled. She knew what I wanted her to do and she kept to the game plan."

The doubles combinations were equally as dominant, with the first doubles team of senior captains Ivy Co and Steph Woods earning a 6-1, 6-0 victory, while the second doubles team of juniors Alex Copp and Christine Woods rolled to a 6-2, 6-0 win.

Junior Chelsie Babcock tosses gem against North Andover

Wildcat pitcher helps guide team to playoffs

Wilmington High junior Chelsie Babcock has helped the varsity softball team reach the state tournament for the first time in three years. On Friday night, she was the winning pitcher in the team's 8-1 win over North Andover. (photos by JoeBrownphotos.com).

When it comes to pitching, there's all kinds of wisdom and advice of how to build up stamina, strength and power. In the game of softball, it's quite different as the underhand motion is more fluent than that of a baseball pitcher, thus females can bounce back quicker than male pitchers.

That being said, being a pitcher is certainly not easy. Pitching everyday, throwing a 100 pitches between warm-ups and seven innings, certainly can take a toll on one's body.

Chelsie Babcock knows all about that being the Wilmington High varsity softball team's only hurler each of the last two seasons, throwing almost every inning. This season, the junior has some help, and it shows as not only is Babcock a much better pitcher, but the team has improved greatly as well.

On Friday night, Babcock earned her second consecutive win, as she pitched seven strong innings to lead the Wildcats past North Andover, 7-1. The win also pushed the team into state tournament play for the first time since Babcock was in middle school, back in the 2006 season.

Having an extra pitcher, sophomore Tori Lord, gives the Wildcats a terrific 1-2 punch and it has really helped Babcock, who is throwing better than ever, and who seems to be much more relaxed and focused.

"I actually like (sharing the duties) a lot," said Babcock, moments after Friday's win. "It's a lot easier to focus when you are not throwing every game and every inning, and it gets tiring after a while. So it's really good to have someone else who can pitch. Tori has real good accuracy and she's just a really good pitcher."

Major League Baseball managers always try to monitor young pitchers, and tried to hold them back as much as possible - so the pitch count, the extra innings and extra work doesn't effect the pitchers in the long run. When Audrey Cabral-Pini took over as head coach, she wanted to make sure the varsity team had more than one pitcher. She does with Babcock and Lord, while freshman Emily Crannell and senior Michelle White have also seen some brief time on the mound.

"Chelsie has been pitching well for us," said Cabral-Pini. "She is stronger because she has not pitched as many innings as years past. She has handled splitting the duty very well. She will do anything for the best of the team. If she is not in the game she is always there to support and pick up the rest of the team. Not only is she a player but she serves as another coach by picking up little clues as to what other team is doing."

That experience has really helped Babcock become a better pitcher, better hitter and a better softball player. She has improved drastically on the mound, throwing much better off-speed pitches, and pitching to location.

Against Pentucket, she tossed a one-hit shut out, and two days later she came back with another impressive outing against North Andover. This time she gave up just three hits through the first five innings, before North Andover managed three hits and one run in the sixth to ruin her shut out, but then she tossed a scoreless seventh to cap the victory and seal a trip to her first post-season.

"I'm really happy and the entire team is really happy that we finally qualified for the first time in two years," she said, before being asked about the team turning around its three game losing streak to win three out of its last four games. "It was tough - we have been able to come back and get back in our groove again."

"We just talked about trying to focus on the things that we were doing wrong, and we pulled together finally and have been able to do really well in these last few games. The offense has been good, and the defense, especially Emily (Crannell), Jackie (Zaremba), Bree (Parow) and Erin (Crowley) have been really good in the infield."

Babcock relied on her defense in the win against North Andover. She got ahead of a lot of hitters and threw some off-speed pitch to get contact. That in turn equaled seven groundball outs and five infield pop ups to go along with her four strikeouts.

"I was throwing a lot of curveballs and drops, and just wanted to keep (their hitters) off balance," she said. "Our defense was great today - especially Jackie (Zaremba at second base). She had an awesome game and made that one really good play. The infield defense has been great lately and that really helps."

What also helps out is Babcock's emergence at the plate. She's become an on-base machine. On Friday, she went 3-for-4, with three singles, while she scored twice and stole a base. That came after two hits earlier in the week, before going 3-for-4 against Newburyport in the team's home loss ten days ago.

"As our lead-off batter Chelsie has done a tremendous job in getting on base," said Cabral-Pini. "She can slap, power slap, hit or bunt as well as working the count. Her on base percentage is outstanding."

Babcock has many dimensions at the plate that give opposing teams trouble. She can slap a ball to the left side of the infield and beat it out for a hit. She can put more of a swing into her slap approach and put one over the infielders heads, or she can take a pitch and belt a single up the middle or into the gap.

But the art of becoming a real good slap hitter in softball, is certainly not the easiest of things.

"I usually just look to see how far back the outfielders are or how far back or in the infielders are playing so I try to aim and hit the ball into the gaps or where those players are not playing," she said. "If I want to do a power slap and try to get the ball over the outfielder's heads, than I put more of a swing into it, and then if the infielders are playing deep, I just try to hit it on the ground and beat it out. It's help me a lot because I have been struggling offensively the last couple of years so I'm just trying to get back and help this team out."

That, helping the team out, she has done in so many ways and not just with her right arm and left handed bat.

"Although she is quite the competitor, Chelsie also knows how to have fun. Her humor is contagious," said Cabral-Pini. "She is a positive role model for the rest of the girls to emulate. She is also the one the girls rely on to keep them upbeat."

And she's also the one the girls can rely on helping them reach the state tournament for the first time in three years.

Softball team counters back with three big wins

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Leave the past in the past, and live in the present. That's what we are all told, right? Well, that's just what the Wilmington High School girls' softball team did this past week.

Before last Wednesday's game with Pentucket Regional, the Wildcats seemed to have taken several steps back, losing three games in a row, two in which the team really had no business in losing, and had given up an average of six runs per game in those three losses. The constant mental mistakes had the thought of the team's post-season chances slipping away.

But behind very good pitching and some timely hitting, the Wildcats avenged their three-game losing streak and put together a solid streak, winning three of four games this past week, including giving up a total of six total runs over those four games, a far cry from giving up six runs per game in the previous three.

Chelsie Babcock tossed a one-hit shut out in the team's 9-0 win over Pentucket Regional last Wednesday, and followed that up with another gem on Friday night in front of the home crowd at Aprile Field. In that game, she gave up one earned run, without giving up a walk and striking out four in the team's 8-1 win over North Andover, which gave the team its tenth win of the season and the automatic qualification slip to the Division 2 North sectional state tournament, the first time since the 2006 season.

After those two wins, Wilmington struggled with the bats, losing 1-0 to Lowell on Sunday night, only to come back and defeat Masconomet, 6-4, in 9 innings on Monday afternoon.

In the win over Pentucket, Babcock went the distance and struck out eight batters and was helped out offensively by junior catcher Brittney McLaughlin, who had a double, single, drove in two runs and scored two runs, as well as Emily Crannell and Taylor Hanley, who both had a double with Hanley and Liz Crannell both knocking in two teammates.

On Friday night, Wilmington jumped out to a 5-0 lead after the first inning. After Babcock retired the North Andover batters down in order in the top of the first, she got the home half going with a bloop infield hit as part of her 3-for-4 night. She advanced to second on a beautiful bunt by Jackie Zarembo, and McLaughlin reached on an infield error to load the bases. Emily Crannell drove in Babcock on a fielder's choice groundout and two batters later, Liz Crannell singled in two runs, which was followed by three straight singles by Erin Crowley, Kelly Brandano and Kaitlyn Souza, helping Wilmington take the early 5-0 lead.

The Wildcats added two more runs in the bottom of the third on a walk and three consecutive singles by Liz Crannell, Crowley and Brandano. Bree Parow then singled by Babcock with the team's final run of the game coming in the bottom of the fifth.

North Andover scored a single run in the top of the sixth inning.

For Wilmington, Babcock finished with three hits, scored twice and stole a base, while, Liz Crannell, Crowley and Brandano each had two hits, while combining to score three runs and drive in three runs.

Jackie Zarembo played a fantastic second base, as she figured in eight North Andover outs.

On Sunday night, in front of a great crowd at Lowell's Martin Field, Wilmington couldn't get the big hit when needed, and fell 1-0, in the second non-league game played against the 4-11 Raiders.

Lowell scored in the first inning on a lead-off triple by Katie Nangle, who then scored on a RBI single by Kara Rogers. Lowell pitcher Samantha Morton went the distance giving up five hits, while Tori Lord pitched very well in the losing effort for the Wildcats, as she too gave up just five hits.

Crowley had two hits for Wilmington, including a double.

"It was a disappointing loss, but it was a well-played game in front of a playoff-like atmosphere," said head coach Audrey Cabral-Pini. "We had our chances and could not capitalize. We hit a lot of deep fly balls, but right at their outfielders. Liz Crannell had a two-out triple and we stranded her. But I thought Tori (Lord) pitched well for us."

Less than 12 hours later, Wilmington was right back on the field, this time facing Masconomet. The Wildcats jumped out to a 4-1 lead, before the Chieftains came back to score three and send the game into extra innings. In the 9th inning, with Kaitlyn Souza on third, Jackie Zarembo put down a nice suicide squeeze bunt to score Souza with the winning run, and then Zarembo scored on a RBI double by McLaughlin.

"We jumped out to the 4-1 lead and things looked great," said Cabral-Pini. "But we did not score again until the ninth inning. We hit some rockets, but they either made all of the plays, or we hit it right at them. Our defense was great. Jackie Zarembo threw out two girls at the plate on relays from (outfielders) Taylor Hanley and Liz Crannell, and Jackie also threw out a girl at third with Erin Crowley making a nice play on it. And then we also made a nice double play in the bottom of the eighth." Lord pitched nearly six innings of scoreless relief to pick up the victory. McLaughlin drove on two runs, while, Emily Crannell, Crowley and Souza had one RBI each. Taylor Hanley also had a nice day collecting two hits.

Wilmington is now 11-8 on the season, and have one game left on the regular season schedule, hosting the red-hot Tewksbury Redmen on Thursday night at Aprile Field beginning at 6:00 pm. Tewksbury has won 11 games in a row, including capturing the Merrimack Valley Conference title for the fifth year in a row. In the first game of the season, Wilmington defeated Tewksbury, 4-0.

Lacrosse teams finishing up fun-filled seasons

Boys currently have six wins

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High School boys lacrosse team is 6-9 on their season with only two more games left on their schedule. The Wildcats had an even record on May 11th, as they were 6-6, but the squad recently lost three games to fall below .500.

On May 12th, the club lost to Tewksbury 14-6, as the Redmen jumped out to an early lead and never looked back.

Tewksbury started off the game leading 7-1, but three goals by the Wildcats made the score 7-4 at halftime. During the second half, the Wildcats were called for too many penalties and the Redmen would capitalize on the advantage and go on to give Wilmington their seventh loss of the season.

Scoring for the Wildcats in the game were players Zac Rosa (2), Frank Sorrentino, Nolan Giroux, Sean Tavares, and Andrew Cazeau. Brendan Collins, Sean Tavares, and Matt Larfarello each had assists in the loss.

Andrew Wells and Eric Parsons each had solid games as both players worked hard on defense.

The Wildcats looked liked they were going to get their seventh win of the season when the squad faced off against Arlington Catholic on May 14th. Wilmington led 4-1 at halftime, but the Cougars managed to score eight goals in the second half and win the game 9-7.

"The team effort was there, as Wilmington played hard for all four quarters of lacrosse," said coach Mike Fay. "The offense played well, but we needed a few more great shots to get over the hump and score a few more goals. We had too many transition goals scored on us, due to great pressure by Arlington Catholic on fast breaks."

The goal scorers for Wilmington in the game were players Brendan Collins (3) Zack Rosa, Frank Sorrentino, Sean Tavares, and Colin Foley. Ed Barrasso, Nolan Giroux, Frank Sorrentino, and Cole Carter each had assists. Matt Kincaid also had a good game in net as he had many saves for the Wildcats.

The following day, May 15th, the Wildcats lost to a very talented Pentucket team by a score of 13-7. It was a great night for lacrosse, as the Wildcats played for the first time at the high school under the lights.

When the game started, Pentucket controlled the ball right from the face off and limited Wilmington's time of possession. That put a lot of pressure on the defense to make a lot of stops.

"Although Pentucket scored 13 goals, it could have been worse," said Fay. "The Wilmington defense work hard all night though, starting with Matt Kincaid in goal and his team of long poles, DJ Morse, Dean Moran, Eric Parsons, Andrew Wells and Matt Ferreira. Our offense was not shy about attacking, but we just needed better takes (shots) and spread out our offense a little more."

The goal scorers for the Wildcats were players Zack Rosa (3), Brendan Collins (3), and Ed Barrasso. Ed Barrasso, Sean Tavares, Andrew Cazeau each had assists in the loss.

Wilmington plays Georgetown on May 19th and results of this game were not known as of press time. The club also hosts Triton in their last game of the season on May 21st. Triton is in the Cape Ann League top tier so they will be a good test to finish the season for the Wildcats.

On May 21st, the boys' lacrosse team will be saying good-bye to the nine seniors that are on the team. These players include Andrew Cazeau, Dan Giamberardino, Matt Kincaid, Dean Moran, Donald Morse, Eric Parsons, Frankie Sorrentino, Sean Tavares, and Chris Thibault.

"I will miss the hard nose attitude of the 2009 senior class, as they always displayed passion for the competition," said Fay. "I asked a lot of the Class of '09 seniors by implementing complexity in Wilmington's game plan.

"We were fortunate to get four senior members selected as CAL second team all stars. Matt Kincaid (goalie, returning as a 2nd team all start), Dean Moran (LSM), Eric Parsons (Defense) and Sean Tavares (Midfielder)."

Overall, Fay was satisfied with the effort given by the team all year long as they improved tremendously from the beginning of the season.

"We had a good year, as a couple of goals here or there would have turned a few games around," said Fay. "The team added multiple dimensions to the program on offense and defense."

"Offensively, we ran two formations, as it added complexity to the offense. We needed to score goals by the bunches and needed options as teams looked to shut down our offense. We just needed a few more takes moving with and without the ball to create great scoring opportunities."

"Defensively, we added a zone defense to complement our man to man defense. Defense played consistently all season and never quit in any game regardless of score."

Even though the squad is losing nine of its senior players this season, the squad will bring back several players whom will try to make Wilmington the team to beat in the Cape Ann League next year.

One of these players is Andrew Wells, a current sophomore defenseman who has started every varsity game for the Wildcats this season. Wells has played consistent defense for the squad all season long, and was recently selected to play on the Raptor's elite lacrosse team.

"The Cape Ann League is a good lacrosse league," said Fay. "Wilmington is still growing, but we have to mature fast to match up against our CAL opponents."

Girls team picks up second win

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO

After beating North Reading 11-10 on May 14th, the Wilmington High School girls lacrosse team got their second win of the season as the team currently has a record of 2-12.

The Wildcats led 7-4 at halftime versus North Reading. With three minutes left in the game, North Reading had a 10-9 lead but Wilmington player Lizz Chin scored two goals to put the Wildcats on top for good.

Chin, one of the senior captains on the squad, finished the game with another tremendous performance as she had five goals and one assist. Lisa Rooker, another senior captain on the club, also led the attack for the Wildcats as she had two goals and two assists.

Junior Captain Bryanne Marra had two goals and one assist. Kaitlyn Hayes and Ally Robbins each had one goal, and Fiona Gately had one assist. Nicole Luz was awesome in net with a 62% save ratio.

On May 18th, the Wildcats hosted the Ipswich Tigers and lost to them by a score of 19-12. It was Senior Night at Wilmington High School, as the Wildcats played their first game under the lights.

Lisa Rooker had four goals and three assists for the Wildcats and Lizz Chin scored one goal and had one assist. Kaila Whooley and Ashley Gonzalez each put two goals in the net.

Marra and Ally Robbins each scored a goal, and sophomore Kaitlyn McGuire scored her first goal of her varsity career. Goalie Nicole Luz made 20 out of 38 possible saves for the Wildcats, as she stopped 53% of shots.

Wilmington wraps up their season on May 20th in an away game against Manchester. It will be the last game for six seniors on the team, which include players Kaila Whooley, Lizz Chin,

WHS Track-And-Field Round-Up Wildcats 4x400 relay team finishes in second place

By MIKE IPPOLITO
& JAMIE POTE

The Wilmington High boys track team saw their regular season come to a somewhat disappointing end last Wednesday afternoon in their final tri-meet of the season with losses to Triton and Newburyport; but they finished the week strong with several outstanding performances in the MSTCA Division 3 Relay Meet on Saturday at Milton High.

In the Relay Meet, the top finishers for the Wildcats who finished 12th of 24 teams in the overall standings, was the 4 x 200 team Jon Parella, Bobby Folk, Caleb Rogers and Jimmy DiNuccio. The quartet, who won the Division 3 championship in the 4 x 400 during the winter season showed they can also excel at a shorter distance, with a second place finish in a time of 1:32.55.

"They did very well," Wilmington coach Bob Cripps said. "It was pretty much what I expected they would do. I knew that would do well."

DiNuccio was also part of the long jump team that pulled off a fourth place finish with a total distance of 61-08.25. Tony Nelson led the way for the Wildcats in the event with a jump of 21-1.

The Wildcats made a slight change to their 4 x 400 lineup, with DiNuccio sitting out. He was replaced by Bamberg who helped the 4 x 400 regulars Parella, Folk and Rogers earn a season best time of 3:32.00. Bamberg personally ran his leg in a time of 52.69.

"Considering that was just his second quarter mile of the season, I would say he did very well," Cripps said.

The 4 x 100 team and the javelin team each grabbed a sixth place finish for the Wildcats.

The 4 x 100 team of Luke Spry, Nelson, Jared Peters and Bamberg set a new season best with their time of 45.6, while the javelin team of DiNuccio, Barry and Tom Valente had a total distance of 427-5, led by DiNuccio's 166-8.

In the tri-meet at Triton last Wednesday, the Wildcats dropped an 80-65 decision to Newburyport, while the dropped a 77-68 decision to their hosts. Despite the losses, the Wildcats had several athletes do very well, particularly in the running events.

Against Triton, the Wildcats got a first place finish in the 400 meter hurdles from Parella, who remained undefeated on the season, as he also took first against Newburyport. Mike Golden took third in the event against Newburyport in a time of 66.0. They took first and second in the 100 meters against both opponents with Nelson taking first with a time of 11.6 and Spry taking second in 11.9.

Wilmington swept the 400 meters against Triton with DiNuccio taking first in 51.6, followed by Rogers in 52.7 and Folk in 53.0, which qualified him for the state meet. Against Newburyport DiNuccio got the win in the event while Rogers was third. They took first and third in the 200 meters with Bamberg leading the way in 24.4 and Nathan Downs coming in at 25.0.

The Wildcats finished second and third in the one mile, two mile and 800 meter events. In the one mile Valente took second in a time of 5:02 followed by Kevin Flaherty in 5:06, while in the two mile Zach Sears was second in 10:52 against Triton as well as Newburyport, while Jon Kinsella was third in 11:16 and in the 800 Joe Warren was sec-

The Wilmington High School Girls Track-And-Field team finished up the regular season with a 2-8 record. The team will now compete in this weekend's Cape Ann League Meet. The team has been led by seniors, including, back row from left: Allison Yee, Kristi Adley, Julie Gorman, Erin Copeland, Ali Lyman, Carmen Palumbo and Charlotte Jensen, and front row from left: Maureen Worthington, Erin Conway, Colleen Kennedy, Ericka Beraldi and Lauren Waring. ond in 2:23 followed by DJ Livermore in 2:15.

Wilmington won both the 4 x 100 and 4 x 400 relays in both meets.

Against Triton, DiNuccio won the javelin event with a throw of 175-2, a new league best for this season, and he also took second in the long jump with a distance of 19-7 1/2. Nelson won the triple jump with a distance of 40 - 1/2.

Against Newburyport, Matt Celeste took a third place finish in the shot put with a throw of 35-5 while Lance Flaherty was third in the discus with a throw of 105-2. Peters won the high jump with a height of 5'6, while Rogers was third at 5'4. DiNuccio's 19-7 1/2 in the long jump earned him top honors against Newburyport, while Downs was third with 19-0.

With the two losses the Wildcats finished their regular season with a record of 4-6, falling just short of the goal of a .500 record that Cripps had set for his team.

"It's a little disappointing because I felt like a couple of meets may have gotten away from us," Cripps said. "I think we should have been at least 5-5, but we had some injuries. I know for one, we never would have lost to Ipswich if we were not so shorthanded when we faced them."

WHS Girls Track

The Wilmington High School girls outdoor track-and-field team completed its Cape Ann League schedule with a loss to Triton Regional and a win over Newburyport last Wednesday afternoon. Wilmington was defeated by Triton, 89-56, and were 91-54 winners over Newburyport which ended the team's record at 2-8 overall.

In the tri-meet against Triton and Newburyport, the top highlight certainly came from Cali Pepper. Against both teams, she won the 200, 400 and long jump. She finished at 26.7 seconds to take the 200, she finished at a season best 60.6 seconds in the 400, and then she leaped 16 feet to qualify for the state meet in the long jump. She finished with 15 of the team's points against each team and 30 of the team's combined 147 points on the day.

Carmen Palumbo was tops against both teams in the 110-meter hurdles, finishing at 16.8 seconds, despite battling an injury, as was senior Colleen Kennedy in the mile as she crossed the tape at 5:44. Senior Ali Lyman finished first in the two mile against both teams at 12:06, and then was first against Triton and second against Newburyport in the 800.

Several other members of the team finished with a first against Newburyport and either a second or a third against Triton, including Erin Conway in the shot put (29-6) and javelin (96-10); Julie Braid in the triple jump (30-4); Erin Copeland in the high jump (4-8) with teammate Cat Parella taking a second and a third at 4-6; and Catrina Fryer in the 100 (13.7).

Danielle Sugrue and Jill Fudge finished second and third in the javelin to round out the individual scoring. Both the 4x100 and 4x400 relay teams were winners. The group of Fryer, Palumbo, Heather Kealos and Maye Randall finished at 52.78 seconds, and the team of Michelle Parece, Lori Fletcher, Rachel Grabar and Jess Maenza finished with a season best time of 4:35 in the 4x400 relay race.

On Saturday morning, beginning at 9:00, the Cape Ann League Championship Meet will be held at Hamilton-Wenham High School with both the Wildcat girls and boys teams competing.

The Camp Director, Head Field Hockey Coach Kristan Mallet is entering her fourth year with the Nichols College Bison. She guided Nichols to The Commonwealth Coast Conference title game for the first time in over a decade, and to an appearance in the ECAC semifinals. and the "Pick-a-Stick" Camp in West Springfield that she co-developed for young athletes interested in both field hockey and lacrosse.

Freshman in the WHS girls lacrosse program are Bea Banda, Courtney Cavanaugh, Caileen Cadogan, Kristin Esdale, Jessica Hanafin, Katie Kurowski, Sarah Luz, Ryanne Newhouse, Emma Saporito, Shelley Sullivan, and Mary To.

Although the Wildcats were not been able to get many wins this season, Nardo said she is very happy with the effort given by the club all season long.

"The girls came to every practice and every game with great attitudes towards the game, the coaches, and to each other," said Nardo. "They were an absolute joy to coach."

In the Cape Anne girl's lacrosse meeting on May 19th, Wilmington was awarded the sportsmanship award for the CAL-small division.

Great friends, great doubles team, great season

so that is great, and we don't get mad at each other when we make a mistake. Your game can get turned around if you are mad at your partner and we never do that. We pick each other up."

As an example of just how vital the pair have been to the Wildcats' success, Welch offers an example of how the whole team goes as their two stars go.

"The Cape Ann League is arguably the best division two girl's tennis league in the state," Welch said. "The Co/Woods doubles team has been a driving force of the Wilmington High School girls tennis team for the past two years. In the past two years in team matches when they win we are 17-5, in matches where they lose the team is 1-9."

Like any player, each of the Wildcat stars has their strengths and weaknesses, and they are able to help each other overcome the weaker parts of their game by being stronger in certain aspects. Although if you ask the two friends, they will tell you there are no weaknesses for their partner to overcome.

"Ivy's biggest strength is her serve. She is just awesome with that," Woods said. "She also has a lot of power in her forehand and backhand. Actually she is good everywhere on the court. She is just awesome."

Co was equally effusive in her praise of Woods.

"Steph is really great at returning serves which is great for us because I can't return very well," Co said. "And I can help her with any weaknesses she has. But she really doesn't have any weaknesses. She is great at everything."

One thing that neither of these friends is going to be great at is saying goodbye to each other after graduation. With Woods off to Quinnipiac to major in physical therapy in the Fall, and with Co off to Penn State to study Bio Technology, they will be separate for the first time in several years.

"I am going to miss her so much," Woods said. "It is so hard to think about next year that I won't be playing with her. It is going to be sad, but I know we will keep in touch."

Added Co, "The one thing I will miss from high school is tennis and playing with Steph. I will miss Steph a lot. It is going to be very hard, but we will make it."

Wilmington Resident Stephanie Figueiredo took 8th place all-around at the Prep-Op Novice level at the Massachusetts State Championships for Gymnastics which was held on Sunday, May 17 at Stoneham High School. Stephanie competed with hundreds of other gymnasts throughout Massachusetts. Stephanie was representing Gymstreet USA of Wilmington.

Wilmington Rec. is serving up some summer tennis lessons

Weekly sessions for beginners will be offered the weeks of June 22 - 26, July 6 - 10, July 13 - 17, July 20 - 24, July 27 - 31, and August 3 - 7. Lessons for children ages 5 - 7 will be from 9 - 10 a.m.; ages 8 - 10 are from 10 - 11 a.m. and children ages 10 - 12 are from 11 a.m. - 12 noon.

Intermediate lessons for children ages 8 - 12 will be offered July 20 - 24, July 27 - 31 and August 3 - 7 from 11 a.m. - 12 noon. Beginner lessons are a prerequisite for these classes.

The cost for each session is $25. Each child will bring an unopened can of tennis balls to their first lesson of each session.

Girls tennis team headed to states again

"Alex and Christine were the clinching win to put us up 3-0. They played well against a team they knew they should beat," Welch said. "They stayed focused and did not let the level of their play drop. Steph and Ivy finished their regular season careers with a strong win. Steph played exceptionally well at the net and Ivy was steady as always."

In the Wildcats previous match, they suffered a 4-1 loss to non-league rival Billerica last Friday. Co and Woods picked up the only win of the day for Wilmington with a 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 victory, but several other players also played well for the Wildcats, including Co and Woods in second doubles who fell by a score of 6-4, 6-4 and McMahon in first singles when she lost 6-1, 7-5.

"The girls played hard but Billerica is a good team. They have only lost twice this year. Walking away from this match even with a loss shows we can compete with any team out there," Welch said. "Erin's match could have been different if she could have pulled out the second set. Her opponent was able to win the key points in the end to take the set and the match."

"Steph and Ivy played the way I expect them to play. They play aggressive smart tennis. They lost to Billerica early in the year, but when they were entering the third set I could tell they weren't going to let that happen again. Christine and Alex continue to improve and grow as a team. They may have lost but they played against a very strong second doubles team. Billerica doesn't get to 13-2 without a strong deep team."

Under 15 Boys Lacrosse team takes on North Andover

The U-15 Boys (Grey) youth lacrosse team played North Andover on Sunday, May 17th, in North Andover in hopes of keeping their winning streak alive.

North Andover came out strong on offense and put two goals onto the scoreboard early in the first quarter. Wilmington rebounded with a quick goal from Brian Preem who took the ball in to score from the face off. Strong defense from Nolan Gaffey, Avery Woodbury and Dan Hope kept North Andover from scoring during the second quarter.

In goal for Wilmington was Brian Reppucci, making key saves for Wilmington. Several attempts to score were lead by Scott Manganelli, Cam Owens, Chris Newton, Tim Hunt (who had 1 assist), Jay Rossetti and Cody McGowan although North Andover's strong goaltending prevented Wilmington from scoring throughout the third quarter.

Brian Preem scored his second goal for Wilmington before the end of the fourth quarter but it was North Andover that came out with the win, with a score of 4-2, giving Wilmington their first loss of the season.

Last Thursday, Wilmington Little League held a fundraiser at Fuddruckers in Reading. Board member Carmen Cocco enjoys burger with the family during the outing. The fundraiser included a raffle for gift certificates, Wilmington Little League apparel and a pair of Red Sox tickets.

Vassallo takes second in elite New Hampshire road race

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington's Dan Vassallo, who finished in 24th place in the Boston Marathon two years ago, continues to run strong races in the area.

The 24-year-old Colby College graduate finished in second place in Friday's USTAF-NE 12K championship held in Bedford, N.H. He ran a time of 38:04, which would have been a new course record.

Vassallo made news in 2007 when he finished the Boston Marathon 24th overall with a blazing time of 2:25:10. He was the ninth American to cross the line, and the youngest competitor to finish in the top 25.

Wilmington's Brianne Bozzella found success both on the field for the UMass Lowell soccer team and off the field in the classroom. She was honored last week by being named her team's Student Athlete of the Year.

Bozzella, a sophomore Exercise Physiology major, boasted a 3.85 GPA. It was the second highest of all the recipients of the award.

Tewksbury's Pat Devlin was also honored for his outstanding play this year for the UMass Lowell baseball team by being named to the NE-10 All-Rookie Team.

Devlin, a freshman second baseman, made an immediate impact for the River Hawks. He batted .315 with team-highs of 33 runs and 21 stolen bases.

Brandon Stokes had two hits, a run and an RBI as he helped lead the Northeastern baseball team to its first CAA playoff appearance since 2006. The junior first baseman from Tewksbury drove in the first run of the game with a double in the second inning. The Huskies will face Georgia State on Wednesday.

Another Tewksbury freshman recently wrapped up a very successful season in athletics. Jenn Foley helped lead the Plymouth State women's lacrosse team to 4-2 conference record, including a first round conference play-off win. The midfielder finished the season with five goals.

Rams clinch league title

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

For the second year in a row the Shawsheen Tech softball team are CAC large champions. The Lady Rams clinched the league title on Tuesday afternoon in dramatic fashion with a home victory over CAC rival Whittier by a score of 3-2. Shawsheen scored twice in the bottom of the sixth without the benefit of a hit, with both runs scoring on a pair of errant Whittier throws.

The win improved Shawsheen's overall record on the season to 17-2, while they finished 12-1 within the loop. They have one game remaining on the season, with a Thursday afternoon tilt against non-league rival Stoneham.

"The girls deserved to win the league," Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley said. "They have played extremely well this season."

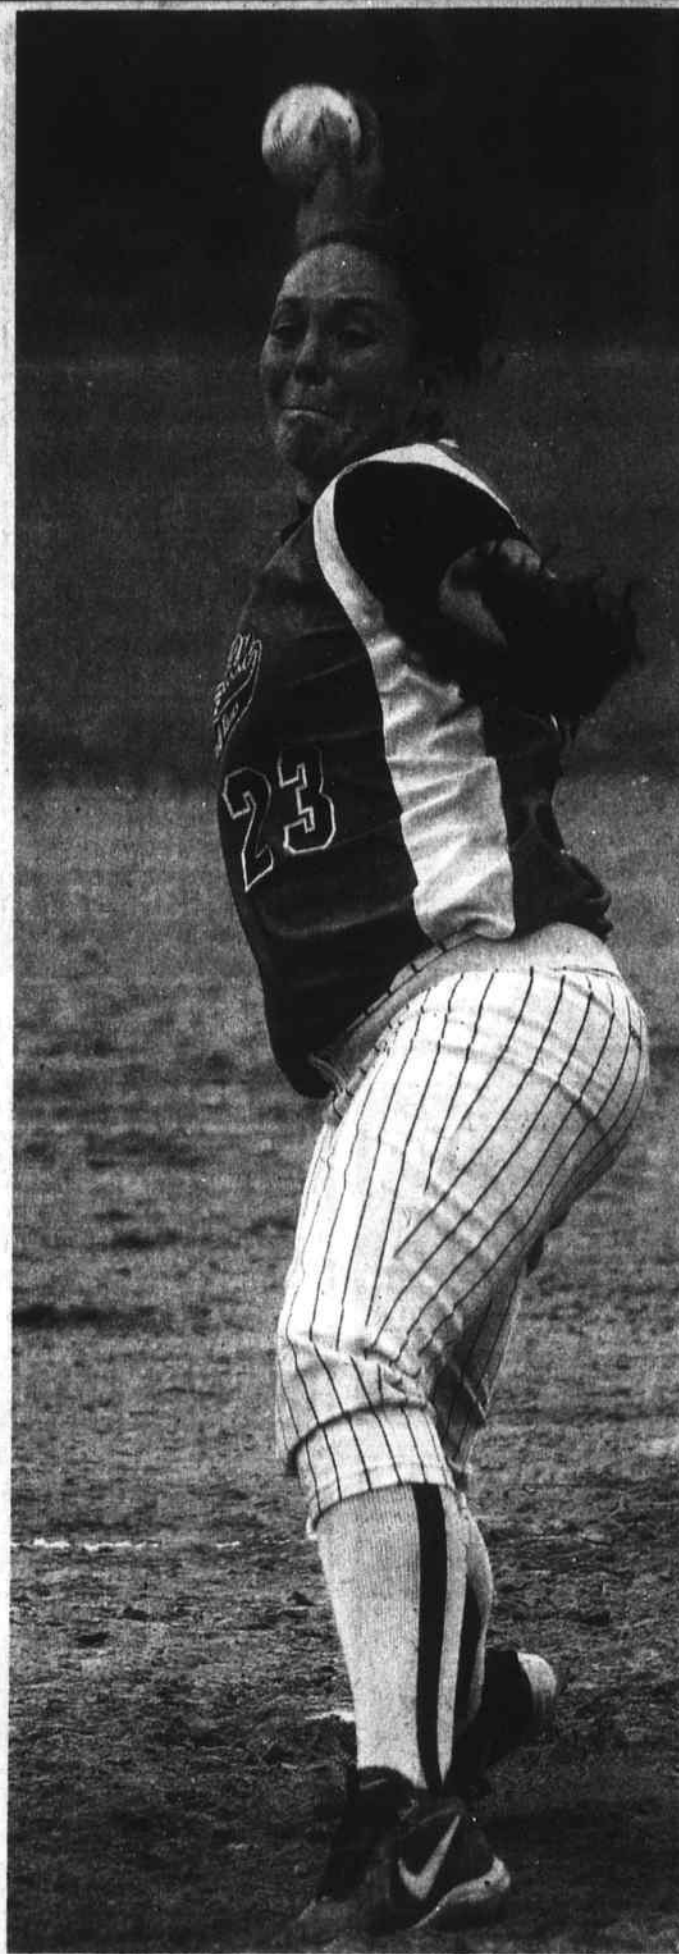

In the dramatic sixth inning, the Shawsheen rally started with two outs, when Jen Curtis hit a hit shot to shortstop that the Whittier player could not handle. After an intentional walk to Tewksbury's Allyson Trayah, Buckley sent Mikayla DiMauro in to pinch run for Curtis.

A wild pitch sent the runners to second and third and when the catcher threw the ball back to the pitcher she had her back turned and the ball rolled towards second base. DiMauro scored on the errant throw and when the Whittier infielder tried to throw how she threw wide of the catcher and Trayah scored as well.

"It was not pretty, but it was a win," Buckley said.

The Whittier win may have been the most exciting of the week, but it was only one of three wins for the Lady Rams on the week.

Shawsheen Tech Sports weekly round-up

On Monday, they earned a key non-league road victory over Arlington Catholic by the same 3-2 score, this time in eight innings. Once again Trayah scored the winning run. This time she singled in the eighth and moved to second on a wild pitch and finally scored when Jenna Zechner ripped a tripe to give Shawsheen the lead.

"Allyson continues to find ways to get on base for us," Buckley said. "Whether it is with a hit, a bunt or a slap, she just gets on. I can't ask any more from a leadoff hitter, not to mention the great job she has done for us behind the plate. For a sophomore she has really stepped up."

Franny Pesantes and Brittani Walsh also each drove in a run for Shawsheen, while star pitcher Kelli Jo Deardorff pitched a complete game, striking out seven batters while also doubling and scoring a run.

"The girls played outstanding," Buckley said. "We played out best defense of the year and we got timely hitting and Kelli did a great job on the mound and Ally did a great job behind the plate. It was just a great overall game."

Shawsheen had started their week with a 7-3 win over PMA of Methuen at home on Thursday. This time it was junior Sara Elwell of Tewksbury who put in an outstanding pitching performance, tossing a complete game, while striking out eight and allowing just two earned runs while also going 2 - for - 3 at the plate.

Pesantes and Walsh each went 1 - for - 3 with an RBI, while senior Tori Philbrook had a hit in the game as well.

As of press time, it was unknown if Shawsheen, who will likely get a very high seed in the Division 3 North Tournament, had qualified for the State Vocational Tournament, but it would appear likely that they would as they have only one loss to a vocational school on the season. They will get the news on this tournament later in the week and if they qualify they will open play on Monday of next week.

Baseball

The Shawsheen baseball team accomplished something this week that did not seem possible when they began the season, wrapping up a berth in the Division 3 North Tournament. The Rams, who entered the season under the direction of a new head coach, and with only starter returning from last year's squad, held on for a dramatic 5-4 victory over CAC rival Northeast Regional on Monday afternoon to clinch their spot in the post season.

The win improved the Rams overall record on the season to 9-7, while they are 7-6 in the CAC Large.

The win was not without its nervous moments, as the Rams held a 5-1 lead heading into the bottom of the seventh only to see

Northeast rally to within a run. The final out of the game could not have come in more dramatic fashion, as with a runner on second and one out, shortstop Dan Walkley made a great play on a slow roller to nail the runner at first on a close play, and then with the runner from second attempting to score, first baseman Mike DeRosa fired a strike to catcher Nick Petrillo who blocked the plate and assured the victory.

"The grass was kind of long so we knew we would have to charge the ball hard on a play like that and Walkley did a great job and made a great throw," Shawsheen coach Jim Sullivan said. "Then DeRosa made a beautified throw and that allowed Petrillo to block the plate. It was a great all around play."

Kevin White of Tewksbury had a double, two RBI and a run scored, while Shaun Miller had an RBI and a run scored and Tewksbury's Derek Harding had a pair of hits. Ryan Bright had another outstanding effort on the mound, allowing seven hits and struck out eight without walking a batter.

"Ryan pitched a great game," Sullivan said. "He had pitched a great game last week against a very good Whittier team and did not get the win and he came back and threw the same game in this one and was able to earn the win this time."

With a spot in the post season assured and just one game left on the regular season schedule, Sullivan was able to take a moment and look back at what his team accomplished this season. With White as the only returning starter, it was hard to predict how the rest of the team would react of their first significant varsity experience, but they came through with flying colors.

"With only one starter returning to the team, I am very pleased that we are able to make the tournament," Sullivan said. "Everybody came up big for us this season. They have done the best they can all season. They have faltered at times as you would expect from an inexperienced team, but they bounced back. I am as proud of this team as any team I have ever coached."

Boys Lacrosse

The Shawsheen boys lacrosse team is also on the verge of wrapping up a league title. With a win on Wednesday afternoon over Lynn Tech the Rams will secure their third straight Mass Technical Lacrosse League (MTLL) title.

With two more league wins this week, surrounding a non-league loss to Weston on Saturday, the Rams improved to 14-3 overall and 14-1 in the MTLL.

Their most recent win came on Monday afternoon on the road when they downed MTLL rival Greater New Bedford by a score of 9-4. The Rams had to battle to earn this victory as they led just 4-2 at the half and found themselves deadlocked at 4-4 in the third quarter. But a strong fourth quarter secured the victory and moved the Rams one game closer to securing another league crown.

"Honestly, I do not feel like we played up to our potential, but it seems like we have a bit of a lapse coming off of our non-league games," Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker said. "We did not played well at the star of this one, but we improved as the game went on and the fourth quarter was our best of the game by far."

Shawn Donovan of Tewksbury led the Rams offense with three goals and four assists, while Cory Foss added three goals and the Wilmington trio of Kyle Gaffey, Jason Baker and Ryan Savini each added a goal. Baker the coach has been particularly impressed with Baker the player's (no relation) game as of late.

"Jay Baker was kind of quiet as far as scoring at the beginning of the season, but he was still working hard and he was still a great leader for us," Baker said. "He is one of the best kids I have ever had the opportunity to coach, so it is nice to see him start to be rewarded by showing up on the score sheet."

Prior to a 14-6 loss to non-league rival Weston on Saturday the Rams had dominated another MTLL opponent, taking a 21-4 victory over Northeast last Friday. With Donovan unable to play, sophomore Ryan Woolaver of Tewksbury moved up from his midfield position to attack and wasted little time in making his presence felt, scoring two goals and adding five assists.

"Ryan has the ability to play both midfield or attack so we moved him up for this game and he responded very well," Baker said. "It was good to see him rise to the occasion like that. Next year we will be losing Donovan and Gaffey so we will need somebody to step in. Ryan has the wheels to do it, so it was good to get him some experience and see him do a good job."

Gaffey added three goals and an assist in the victory, as did freshman Nick Peacock, while Foss had three goals.

With the state tournament on the horizon, Baker is hoping that his team's experience in non-league games this season will serve them well. Although they lost to both Scituate and Weston, Baker feels like his team likely benefited from going against that level of play.

"I feel like the past couple of years when we have gone to the tournament we just did not know what to expect as far as what our opponents could do because we had not seen it all year," Baker said. "With the experience we have gotten this year, hopefully we can hold our own regardless of who we draw."

Jim Dwyer: Being a state rep. is 'a dream come true'

By GORDON VINCENT

Jim Dwyer's goal in life was not to become a state representative. Three years ago, he was finishing a distinguished career that spanned three decades in the Middlesex Juvenile Probation Dept.

In his mid-50s, Dwyer's working career was practically over, and he looked forward to a long retirement with his wife Mary Ellen (Mimi) and his two daughters, Shannon and Kara.

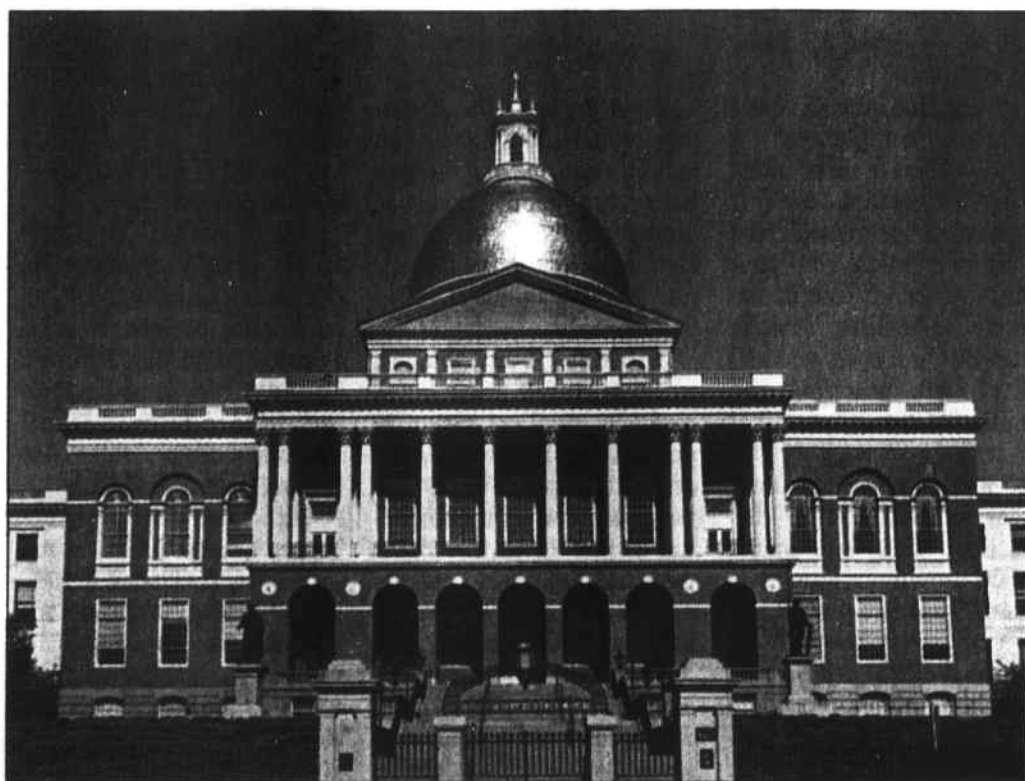

Dwyer's foray into the political arena came as an observer, when he helped his good friend and former Woburn City Council member Bryan Melanson during an unsuccessful bid for mayor.

"Politics were never on my radar," said Dwyer. "But I'd always given anyone who wants to run for office, especially municipal office, a lot of credit because it's politics at the grassroots level."

In 2005, he decided to run for a seat on the Woburn City Council, as the Ward 4 alderman. William Booker, the incumbent, decided not to run for re-election and Dwyer won, then was re-elected to a second term.

After three years on the council, Dwyer announced his candidacy for the state representative seat from the 30th Middlesex district, which includes wards 2-6 in Woburn, along with precincts 2, 3 and 5 in Reading, and Precinct 3 in Stoneham.

He defeated incumbent

STATE REPRESENTATIVE JIM DWYER, elected last November, has found his groove on Beacon Hill. The Woburn resident said, "It's been a whirlwind, but it's also been a dream come true. For me to represent the city I grew up in, along with Stoneham and Reading, is beyond any of the wildest aspirations I ever had."

Patrick Natale in the Democratic Party's primary, and then was unopposed in the 2008 general election. In January, he was sworn into office, only to have what has been called the worst fiscal crisis in the country since the Great Depression staring the Legislature square in the face.

"It's been a whirlwind," Dwyer said of the past five months. "But it's also been a dream come true. For me to represent the city I grew up in, along with Stoneham and Reading, is beyond any of the wildest aspirations I ever had."

Dwyer's roots in the three communities run deep. He remembers playing Little League baseball, coaching Woburn Youth Hockey, and rattles off a laundry list of close friends with whom he has been associated since he moved to the city in 1957.

"I thank God my parents decided to move to Woburn," said Dwyer. "It's a great place to live, and a great place to raise a family."

"People like Joe Crowley, who started the youth hockey program in 1970, and Eddie McColgan and Dick Haggerty (who was Dwyer's baseball coach), and Bishy (Anthony) Pandolph are the people who have kept the community going all these years," said Dwyer. "You really have to admire people like that, and the service they've given to the community. I think Bishy has been involved in Woburn Babe Ruth for 50 years now, and that's not an ordinary commitment."

Through his work in the probation department, he also made a lot of friends in Stoneham and Reading - Dwyer calls former Reading Memorial High athletic director and football coach Jack White a close friend - and gained experiences that helped him learn the political terrain when he decided to run for state representative.

"I've known all the state representatives all over Middlesex County from working with them all those years," said Dwyer. "I'd like to think those associations helped ease my reception when I was elected to the Statehouse."

If Dwyer has a mantra as a state representative, it's an insistence on returning tele-

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"ANGELS AND DEMONS" A DECENT ACTION THRILLER

"ANGELS AND DEMONS" stars Tom Hanks and Ayelet Zurer. The movie is based on Dan Brown's best selling novel. The movie's good, but the book is better.

"ANGELS AND DEMONS"
GRADE: **

This film faced early criticism for being unrealistic and taking artistic liberties with the truth and history. People sometimes forget that it's based on a work of fiction by author Dan Brown, and not actual historical fact.

As fans of the novel know, this is a prequel to The Da Vinci Code, with Tom Hanks again playing symbolologist Robert Langdon. Ayelet Zurer is scientist Vittoria, the love interest who listens as Hanks divulges his theories about what each new clue may mean.

Ewan McGregor is superb as Camerlengo Patrick McKenna. He is temporarily the most powerful man in the Vatican City, left in charge while the cardinals are locked in the Sistine chapel to elect a new pope.

The plot kicks off with the death of a progressive-minded pope and a church facing change and dissent. The process of picking a new Holy Father is under way when four cardinals, who are all possible candidates for the job, are kidnapped by an ancient and secret group called the Illuminati. They are threatening to kill one cardinal every hour as an act of revenge for the crimes the church subjected them to a couple of hundred years earlier.

Meanwhile, elsewhere in Rome, a team of scientists, led by Vittoria, have been playing God and have created a canister of anti matter capable of mass destruction. That, too, is in the hands of the Illuminati, who plan to blow up Vatican City. Instead of calling for divine intervention, the church authorities get their old adversary Langdon (Hanks, who once again comes off as boring playing this character) to come and decipher the Illuminati codes that will reveal where the priests will die and where the anti-matter is hidden.

If you want historical accuracy, go to the library. If you want an adventure that plays fast and loose with the facts in an at-times fun way, you've come to the right place.

It's a decent action thriller with a historical plot, but fans should read the novel too. It contains a much more detailed plot, but for lightweight summer fun, the movie works.

"STAR TREK"
GRADE: ****

So how do you reboot a series that has become legend in the world of science fiction, and has over 40 years of adventures already set in stone? You come up with a way to wipe the slate clean, yet keep the same essential characters a part of the plot.

That's the genius behind director J.J. Abrams' reimagining of 'Star Trek' - it's not so much a prequel,, as it is a shot in the keister to a film series that has sat on the closet shelf far too long.

Star Trek presents the right mix needed for a successful production of one of these huge summer spectacles, with its smooth blending of story, special effects and character.

In the past few years, movie technology seems to have slowed, with more and more special effects beginning to look the same. But Star Trek takes many familiar outer space images and puts a new spin on them, with creative new set and production designs. Abrams' special-effects team renders novel new gadgets, vehicles, weapons and creatures.

In addition, these visual elements complement a story peppered with interesting characters, even if you have no idea who James T. Kirk is when you walk into the theater. One of the more appealing things about the film is its accessibility. One need not be familiar with the original TV series, its successors, or any of the numerous subsequent movies to enjoy this film - but on the same hand, if you are a Trekkie who knows exactly what a Tribble is, you will be rewarded. The rest of the audience might struggle with some of the information, but the script has streamlined the story enough for everyone to tag along.

Star Trek begins with an extended sequence set about 200 years in the future and finds Klingon warrior Nero (Eric Bana) destroying an earthly spacecraft. Escaping in time to give birth is the mother of James Tiberius Kirk, who grows to be a rebellious Iowa farm boy played by Chris Pine.

Kirk tempers his wild side long enough to become a promising officer, joining, but always competing against, half-human, half-Vulcan Spock (Zachary Quinto).

Once their beginnings, and those of other crew members, are established with relative ease and believability, J.J. Abrams jumps to the inevitable clash between the Starship Enterprise and Nero's outpost of soldiers.

In the interim, Kirk and Spock time-travel, make a rescue from another planet, and inevitably battle with one another before becoming the best of friends.

It's a fun mission, and the battles are spectacular.

Abrams and his crew create an action flick that satisfies, and builds background for these characters in an energetic, humorous, embraceable way that will excite new fans, while paying tribute at the same time.

Longtime Trekkies, have no fear - the Kobayashi Maru no-win scenario, the Vulcan nerve pinch and the mind-meld, the "I'm a doctor, not a physicist" utterings from McCoy - they're all here.

If this is the initial voyage of the new and improved U.S.S. Enterprise, just show me where to enlist.

"THE SOLOIST"
GRADE: ****

Movies about the homeless or the mentally ill can sometimes come off as being too goody-goody or heavy-handed with their righteous messages - that's not the case with 'The Soloist'.

Director Joe Wright, working with a great script and excellent performances from Robert Downey Jr. and Jamie Foxx (who may both end up nominated for Oscars from this one), this real-life story quickly establishes itself as one of the year's best movies.

Downey portrays Los Angeles Times columnist Steve Lopez as a man who loves his job and little else. He's divorced from an editor at the paper (Catherine Keener) and rarely sees his child. He's constantly on the prowl for topics to write about, and his drive for a spot on the front page means he's always moving on to another subject, another person, another situation.

Hearing music in a downtown park, Lopez discovers a homeless man (Foxx) sitting beneath a statue of Beethoven and playing a violin with only two strings. He's clearly mentally ill. His wardrobe is made up of sequins, Day-Glo construction vests and an ever-present frayed purple lei, but he sure can play.

He says his name is Nathaniel Ayers and claims he once attended the prestigious Juilliard School of Music. Lopez's journalistic instincts immediately kick

About the Towns by Phyllis Nissen

MEANINGFUL TYPES OF 'APPEAL'

APPEALING TO THE WHOLE COMMUNITY OF WAKEFIELD

"The METCO Program, along with many other viable programs, is suffering tremendously due to the state's budget cuts. Wakefield METCO in particular has suffered the loss of thousands of dollars to the FY09 budget," notes Phynita Brinson, Wakefield METCO Director, in the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Students have lost necessities such as late bus transportation, which allows students to stay after school for extra help, sports, and other school activities and then ride the bus that picks up from school at 4:00 and takes them home. For student athletes, there was once a bus that brought students' home after sports games. They have also lost the privilege of having an after school tutor."

"Adequate transportation should be a foundational part of each district's METCO Program. A lack of transportation should not be the deciding factor for a student who wants to stay after for extra help, participate in programs such as MCAS Prep, or playing on a sports team. One of the main goals for each participating student is for him/her to feel that they are a part of their schools community. It is demoralizing for a student to have to explain to their friends that they are not able to participate in something because they will not have a way to get back home once the bus leaves at the end of the school day."

"The METCO Program has been successful since its inception in 1966. The METCO Program fosters an appreciation of many cultures, provides an opportunity for suburban and urban students to learn together, and an understanding of a pluralistic world. Chipping away at funds that support the METCO Program could very well be the beginning of the end of the program's success."

"Nine students of Wakefield High, have a wonderful opportunity to participate on a Civil Rights Tour in Atlanta, Birmingham, and Montgomery, through EF Education... In order to make this trip a reality for these students, financial donations from generous people like you are essential..."

A STATE FIRST IN STONEHAM

"State officials lauded town officials ... for launching the Commonwealth's first public health related Emergency Preparedness Operations Center," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"In a ceremony ... in Town Hall, local Board of Health officials unveiled the new Mystic Valley Coalition Emergency Preparedness Center, which will be utilized by five communities to plan, train, and possibly respond to a major public health catastrophe."

"Our approach to this wasn't about the credit. It was about results. We said, 'What is the best we can do with the resources we have?'" said Stoneham Board of Health Chairman Dan Doherty.

"With everything going on with the budget, we were able to take what little funding we had and get Stoneham back to where people can look to us," added Health Agent Robert Bracey....

'EYE-APPEALING' FOR WOBURN-

"Two new underground fuel tanks will be installed at the Hess station in East Woburn as part of the conversion from McSheffrey's Citgo continues," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The City Council voted unanimously ... to grant a flammable license for the storage of 40,000 gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel at 306 Montvale Ave., at the corner of Washington Street."

"The only person from the audience to speak during the public hearing was Paul Meaney Sr., Executive Director of the Woburn Business Association."

Meaney noted the original special permit for Hess includes the donation of a small strip of land that will be needed by the city in its efforts to widen the Montvale Avenue corridor, a project that has been in the offing for at least a decade.

"We want to get this intersection done sooner than later," said Meaney.

"Meaney also called the Hess station in Winchester 'eye-appealing' and urged passage of the flammable license."

Movies From S-2

in. There's a story here.

The more Lopez learns about Ayers, the more there is to write. There's Ayers' childhood - he was a brilliant young musician felled by schizophrenia while at Juilliard.

And his yearning to hear an orchestra play in the new Disney Concert Hall (because Ayers' tics and odd behavior might offend paying concertgoers, Lopez arranges for him to sit in on rehearsals). A Times reader, now crippled by arthritis, donates her cello to Ayers.

The core story of the film is a tale about a man who wants no responsibilities outside work but finds himself befriending and caring for someone whose life is in near-constant crisis. Lopez arranges a safe rehearsal space for Ayers at a homeless shelter.

Fox's performance, based on many hours studying the real Nathaniel Ayers, is great, and Downey jumps into the role feet first, as he always does, and turns in yet another career-making performance.

"The Soloist" will give you that warm and fuzzy, feel-good feeling that has nothing to do with the weather.

"STATE OF PLAY"
GRADE: ****

If you are one of those that still enjoy newspapers, see 'State of Play'. If you work at one, see it and you'll be reminded of why you chose that career in the first place.

This gripping political thriller from director Kevin Macdonald is an Americanization of a BBC miniseries, and features a first-rate cast, terrific pacing and the sort of snappy dialogue you rarely find on the big screen anymore.

The film also celebrates the role of the print news reporter as a watchdog for society, while taking some shots at the online world of bloggers and free, fast-paced editorial content.

PHOTOGRAPHS BY
KATHLEEN G. ARCHER

Kathleen Gerdon Archer investigates issues of family and personal history through painting and photography.

More Dreams of the Mapmaker, a series of digital photographs that are a response to personal loss and the years that follow, is featured in The Atelier Gallery of the Stoneham Theatre in Stoneham through May 31 parallel to the theater's production of Strangers on a Train.

Archer says the photographs "reference subtle moments of beauty, which make themselves known even in the most difficult of circumstances. Employing water as a unifying element, the series begins with the very ambiguous and culminates, after many years, in a vaporous clarity."

Archer, of Beverly, earned a bachelor of fine arts degree in painting from Montserrat College of Art in 2003. She is a member of the Copley Society of Boston.

An Open Reception with Archer at the Stoneham Theatre is May 24 from 3 - 4:30 p.m. It is open to all. Please RSVP to the Griffin Museum by May 17.

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: Which two major leaguers stole at least one base in four different decades?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

SAINT ANSELM SENIOR CHRIS MURPHY (WINCHESTER) earned a spot on the Northeast-10 All-Tournament Team for his play during the tournament. Murphy had three goals and an assist in the two games as the Hawks upset No. 5 seeded Saint Michael's by a 14-13 final to earn the team's first semifinal berth under third-year head coach Rick Senatore.

A Northeast-10 All-Conference First Team selection, Murphy led the team with 51 points on 36 goals and 15 assists this season. He finished his career in fourth on the all-time Saint Anselm points list with 166, third in goals with 125 and seventh in assists with 41 for his career. In addition, Murphy was a finalist this year for the Saint Anselm Male Athlete of the Year Award.

CORY SPINALE (WAKEFIELD) was named the Northeast-10 Goalkeeper of the Week recently.

Spinale stopped 14 shots in an 11-6 win over Saint Anselm. He then stopped five shots and earned his first career assist in a 17-5 win over Pace.

The junior netminder is 10-1 this season with a 7.31 goals-against and a .615 save percentage.

•Need some help with this week's question? One of them played for the speedy Red Sox.

•Freshman pitcher Jack Leathersich (Beverly, MA) was named the Freshman Pitcher of the Year and led six UMass Lowell players cited to the Northeast-10 All-Conference teams, released Monday morning.

FRESHMAN 2B PAT DEVLIN (TEWKSBURY) was also named to the All-Rookie Team with Nunes and Leathersich.

UMass Lowell recently capped the 2009 season with a 25-21 record (15-15 in the NE-10, sixth) and reached the semifinal round of the NE-10 Tournament. All six River Hawks earned the honors for the first time.

Devlin made an immediate impact, batting .315 with team-highs of 33 runs and 21 stolen bases (26 attempts). He also drew 20 walks and established a .958 fielding percentage with 83 putouts, 98 assists and eight errors.

The River Hawks return all but two players for the 2010 season.

•Sophomore Lauren Raimondi (East Longmeadow, MA) won the high jump and placed second in the 100 meter hurdles to lead UMass Lowell to eighth at the New England Track and Field Championship Friday and Saturday at the University of Massachusetts.

The River Hawks scored 41 points and topped all Division II and III schools. Boston College won the team title with 87 points while New Hampshire (75.5) placed second, Northeastern (57.5) third and the host Minutemen (55) fourth.

JUNIOR JACQUI BARRETT (WOBURN)

earned All-New England in the shot put for the fourth time, placing third overall (second among Division II-III throwers) with a distance of 44 feet, 10.75 inches.

•The Saint Anselm College baseball team fell recently to the Riverhawks of UMass-Lowell 2-0 at LeLachur Park. The loss dropped the Hawks to 15-28 overall and 10-17 in conference game, while the win improved UMass-Lowell to 24-15 on the year and 15-11 in league contests.

In the bottom half of the fourth inning, RIVERHAWK'S FIRST BASEMAN TAYLOR VON KRIEGERBERG (STONEHAM) ripped an RBI single down the right field line scoring Peter Onorato (Clarence Center, N.Y.) who had earlier tripled.

UMass-Lowell added another in the seventh when PAT DEVLIN (TEWKSBURY) scored on a double steal for the 2-0 NE-10 victory.

•Three Salem State College Vikings earned selection to the Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference (MASCAC) Baseball All-Star Teams for the 2009 season.

Freshman second baseman Chris Cocci of Wakefield, RI was named MASCAC Rookie of the Year by the league head coaches after compiling a .288 batting average to go along with 20 runs batted in, 38 hits and SSC team-highs in runs scored (33) and at bats (132) while starting all 35 games the Vikings (16-19) played.

SENIOR DESIGNATED HITTER KEN LUONGO OF WILMINGTON was chosen to the All-MASCAC first team after finishing among the league's top five hitters in five different categories. Luongo blasted a team-leading eight home runs which placed him in a tie for third among MASCAC leaders. He was also the MASCAC runner-up in slugging percentage (.612), third in runs batted in (43), third in on-base percentage (.483), fourth in walks (25) and ninth in total bases (71). Luongo finished with a team-high .345 batting average.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The two players who stole at least one base in four different decades are Rickey Henderson and Ted Williams.

State Rep Jim Dwyer

phone calls from constituents in the timely manner. He and his aide, Joseph Demers of Woburn, have instituted a "24-hour rule" in that they will return a phone call or an email within one day.

"Constituent services are really what being an elected official are all about," said Dwyer. "I'm elected to not only serve the people who voted for me, but also the people who didn't vote for me, and even the people who didn't vote."

"I know everyone isn't going to agree with every position I take or every vote I make, but if they have concerns I want them to contact me," said Dwyer.

He prefers talking on the telephone to exchanging email.

"If you're talking to someone on the phone, you can have a conversation," said Dwyer. "Email is terrific, but it doesn't give you the same type of interaction as a conversation."

Dwyer says he wouldn't be able to stay in touch with his constituents without Demers, who after just five months as an aide is already considered a seasoned pro inside the Statehouse.

"People come up to me all the time and ask me how long he's been working (as an aide), and they're amazed I tell them he's a rookie, just like me," said Dwyer. "There are probably 200 aides, but Joe is a first round draft choice."

Demers and Dwyer became affiliated after Demers volunteered for Dwyer's state representative campaign.

"Joe's came on board very early, and he helped me with the young population during the campaign," said Dwyer. "His reputation has always been excellent, and he's very intelligent. He's a hard worker, and I can't say enough good things about him as an aide."

Dwyer couldn't have been elected at a more challenging time. The state budget is a mess, due to the economy, and some tough votes regarding local aid - which Dwyer stressed during his campaign - have already been made, and more are likely forthcoming.

There was also an almost immediate turnover of the leadership in the House, when speaker Salvatore DiMasi resigned due to some ethics questions, and was succeeded by Robert DeLeo.

"I've been here five-and-a-half months, and already I've cast two votes for speaker, a bill to give the governor (more control over local aid) and we've been in the middle of a budget crisis," said Dwyer.

Woburn has been able to fare a bit better economically due to its renowned industrial and commercial base. Reading has also been able to sustain most of its services, but especially Stoneham has been hit hard by the budget reductions.

"Stoneham just doesn't have the same type of ability to increase its tax base because of all that land that's owned by the MDC," said Dwyer. "Even though I only represent one precinct in Stoneham, I feel like every vote I take is for the entire town, and I keep that in mind."

Dwyer pledged his support to DeLeo because he thought the Winthrop representative symbolized the level of ethics and integrity that he hopes he has brought to the Statehouse on his own.

"The speaker has on open-door policy just like I do, and I backed him when he started talking about ethics reform in a personal conversation," said Dwyer. "We share those common interests, and he's been a man of his word because that was the first thing he tackled as soon as he was elected speaker."

Dwyer was appointed by DeLeo to three committees to which he sought membership -

Judiciary, Children, Families and Persons with Disabilities, and Steering, Policy and Scheduling.

"Obviously, I have a great deal of interest in the Judiciary Committee because that's where I worked all those years," said Dwyer.

He also has experience with children and families in the probation department, and with disabled citizens from his service on the Board of Directors of the Woburn-based Central Middlesex Association of Retarded Citizens (CMARC).

"The work CMARC does is just incredible," said Dwyer. "It's the health and human services part of the budget that I really fear for, because I'm so passionate about the work they do."

On top of all the legislative business, Dwyer had to deal with a health issue involving his wife, which he learned of the night he won the Democratic primary.

"She's fine now, thank God - a 100 percent clean bill of health," said Dwyer. "My wife is a remarkable person, and she's raised two terrific daughters. We're thrilled that we're going to be welcoming our second grandchild into the world in September, and we look forward to spending time together as a family."

His commitment to his family hasn't suffered in spite of his other campaign vows to treat his elected office like a full-time, nine-to-five job, though he's found it's been much more than that.

"It's nights and weekends and all hours of the day, but that's part of what makes government so unique," said Dwyer. "I was elected to help the residents of the commonwealth, and that's what I try to do every day."

"I know I can't please everyone all the time, but I'm trying to give politics a good name," he added. "People want their elected officials to do their business ethically, and work hard, and if you remember that, everything else falls into place."

Enjoy quick, tasty, healthy meals

Warm-weather dining should be full of light, delicious and easy-to-prepare meals that can be whipped up in a snap. After all, when entertaining poolside or heading home for a bite after a day at the beach, meal preparation should be as simple as possible.

You also want to prepare and serve foods that fit with a healthy lifestyle, which will provide plenty of energy and keep the entire family looking and feeling its best during a season full of fun and recreation.

In addition to fresh vegetables, fruits, and plenty of hydrating beverages, foods high in protein but low in fat are important components of a healthy diet, say many dietary experts. Those that can be tossed on the grill or conveniently made into sandwiches and wraps to take on the go are ideal to have on hand.

Science suggests a diet rich in mycoprotein, the unique ingredient found in Quorn Naked Chik'n cutlets, may help reduce cholesterol and manage risk of obesity and type-2 diabetes. Completely meat- and soy-free, mycoprotein is a powerhouse ingredient with less fat, fewer calories and more fiber than meat, and also has great texture and delicious taste. Ounce for ounce, mycoprotein has nearly as much protein as an egg, more fiber than a baked potato and one-third less fat than skinless chicken breast, making it a smart option for families whether they eat meat or enjoy a vegetarian lifestyle. All 11 prepackaged varieties found in your grocer's freezer can be stored in your own freezer and cooked on demand, making fast work of meal preparation.

Many mycoprotein fans have also commented on its delicious taste and how they've been "fooled" into thinking they're eating real meat or poultry.

To try mycoprotein for yourself, here's an easy meal that should become part of any warm-weather entertaining recipe collection.

Health & Beauty

Beach-ready body

It's already May and the summer swimsuit season is right around the corner. So how do you ready yourself for being scantily clad at the shore or around the pool - and fast? The good news is there is still time to slim down and firm up before you don the bikini. It is reasonable to lose about 8 pounds in 4 to 6 weeks. A loss of 8 pounds can make a big difference in how you look in a swimsuit and other summer clothing.

* Skip the sweets and packaged foods. Stick to fresh fruits; several small, light meals; and plenty of water.

* Get out there and sweat. You will need to exercise to shed the weight. Aim for 30 to 60 minutes a day.

* Write down everything that you eat so you can see where you over-indulge.

* Avoid gas-producing foods or eating/drinking in a manner that can trap air in your digestive system. This will only make you look bloated.

* Skip salty foods that could cause you to retain water.

-inch squares
2 tomatoes, seeded and diced
2 Tbsp. olive oil
1 Tbsp. fresh basil, chopped
1 tsp. fresh parsley, chopped
1 garlic clove, minced
1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

Line the grill rack of gas or charcoal grill with foil, or use a foil-lined baking sheet and pre-heat the grill to medium. Place the cutlets, eggplant and tomatoes on foil. Brush with 1 tablespoon of olive oil and season with salt and pepper. Grill 10 minutes then turn over the cutlets and vegetables. Grill an additional 10 minutes, or until the cutlets are golden brown.

Combine the eggplant and tomatoes in large bowl with remaining olive oil, basil, parsley, garlic, lemon juice, and more salt and pepper to taste. Spoon this salad over cutlets and serve.

Understanding a complicated disease: ALS

Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS) is a disease many people are familiar with, though they might not know it. A disease that affects nerve cells in the brain and spinal cord, ALS is more commonly known as "Lou Gehrig's Disease," so named because of the famed New York Yankees first baseman who died of the disease shortly after retiring from baseball.

While its famous namesake has given it name recognition, ALS remains a mystery to many people, including researchers who continue to search for a cure. As that research continues, the best weapon people have against ALS is knowledge, namely what the disease is, what its symptoms are and who's most susceptible.

What is ALS?

When a person has ALS, specific nerve cells in the brain and spinal cord slowly die. These nerve cells are known as motor neurons, and reach from the brain to the spinal cord and from the spinal cord to the muscles throughout the body. These cells progressively degenerate, eventually leading to death. According to the ALS Association, the death of these motor neurons robs the brain of its ability to initiate and control muscle movement. As the disease progresses, it is possible, thanks to this lost ability to control muscle movement, for patients to become totally paralyzed.

What Are the Symptoms of ALS?

Initial symptoms of ALS could be very difficult to recognize, and are often overlooked. In addition, not all people with ALS experience the same symptoms. However, symptoms of ALS can follow a common progression.

1. Muscle weakness: Muscle weakness is often the first sign of ALS, and occurs in approximately 60 percent of ALS patients. Typically, this weakness is concentrated in one area, such as weakness in one leg, one hand, the face, or even the tongue. The muscle weakness then gradually spreads, as the motor neurons begin to die and the muscles get weaker and smaller as a result.

2. Fasciculation: This is essentially cramping and twitching of the muscles, and tends to appear after initial muscle weakness as the muscles weaken but before they completely deteriorate. This twitching is often most noticeable in the hands and feet, and difficulty using hands and fingers to perform tasks can occur.

3. Loss of function in arms and legs: As the disease progresses, so, too, does the loss of function in both the arms and legs.

4. Difficulties with speech: "Thick speech" will develop as patients begin to have difficulty speaking and projecting their voice.

5. Shortness of breath, difficulty breathing and swallowing: These symptoms are often indicative that ALS has entered its advanced stages.

Who Gets ALS?

ALS is not a very common disease, but this fact hasn't resulted in the disease being brushed aside; research as to a cure is ongoing. Estimates suggest as many as 30,000 Americans have ALS at any given time, with 5,600 new diagnoses each year.

Demographically, the ALS CARE Database indicates 60 percent of ALS patients are men, and 93 percent of patients are Caucasian. The average age of diagnosis is 55, and most people who develop ALS are between the ages of 40 and 70. While the disease occurs in greater percentages as men and women grow older, there are instances where ALS has occurred in persons in their 20s and 30s. Interestingly, as men and women age, the incidence of ALS in men and women is more equal.

What is the Prognosis for ALS Patients?

Research has begun to bear some evidence that people with ALS are beginning to live longer, perhaps due to clinical management interventions or advancements in medicine. In general, half of all people with ALS live at least three or more years after diagnosis.

"I HAVE LOST 50 POUNDS"

BEFORE AFTER

I joined Get In Shape For Women almost a year ago. I have lost 50 pounds in that time and have gained strength and tone throughout my body. Get In Shape For Women has changed my life. I feel healthy and energetic, I am no longer afraid to try on pants at the clothing stores, I feel great! The program is designed in such a way that I feel compelled to go. It is not like a gym where I am the only one who knows whether I was there. It isn't just about the workout either. I have learned how to eat in a healthy way so that I am losing weight, but I don't feel as though I'm on a strict diet. It is a way of life, not a quick fix.

The trainers are very caring and they are always available to help in any way they can. The workouts are fun and the other clients are always encouraging. I always feel good when I walk out the door. I am extremely grateful for GIS and for what the program has done for me. I can't imagine where I'd be physically if I hadn't joined when I did.

Meet Steven

"Hi, my name is Steven, I have a smile that would melt your heart and I love to be outdoors!"

With a bright smile and a positive attitude, Steven, of Caucasian and Hispanic descent, embraces life head on. Fresh air loving and eleven years old, Steven readily participates in any type of outdoor activity. He is currently taking horseback riding lessons at a local farm and loves every minute of it. When Steven is not frolicking in the great outdoors you can find him conquering the world through video games, challenging himself with board or card games, and having adventures on the computer.

Steven strives to please others and is working very hard in school. He has enduringly won over everyone who works with him and earns rave reviews. With his sweet and helpful personality, Steven enjoys many aspects of school, with science being his favorite. He especially enjoys any type of hands on experiment and is the first to volunteer in his classroom. When he grows up Steven would like to become a police officer or a soldier so that he can help others.

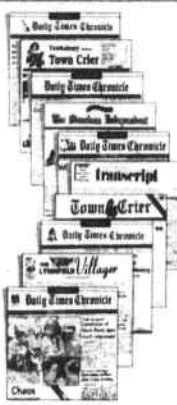

This kind-hearted young man has a special place in his heart for animals and is eager to find a forever family where he can have a dog as a pet. Steven is legally free for adoption and would do well in a family of any constellation, with or without other children. He would continue to thrive in a patient, understanding family with the determination to help Steven reach his potential. It is important that Steven's family be willing to support his contact with his siblings. Steven's special wish is to have a permanent family to love.

Heart of the Bergstrom is open, informal

Square wooden columns resting on tapered river rock bases give a distinctive look to the Bergstrom. Its wide window bay and trio of gables heighten the image of warmth and welcome. The covered porch is more open than most, and practically cries out for installation of an old-fashioned wooden swing on the right-hand side.

Designed for construction on a narrow lot, this single-level plan is easily adapted for wheelchair accessibility.

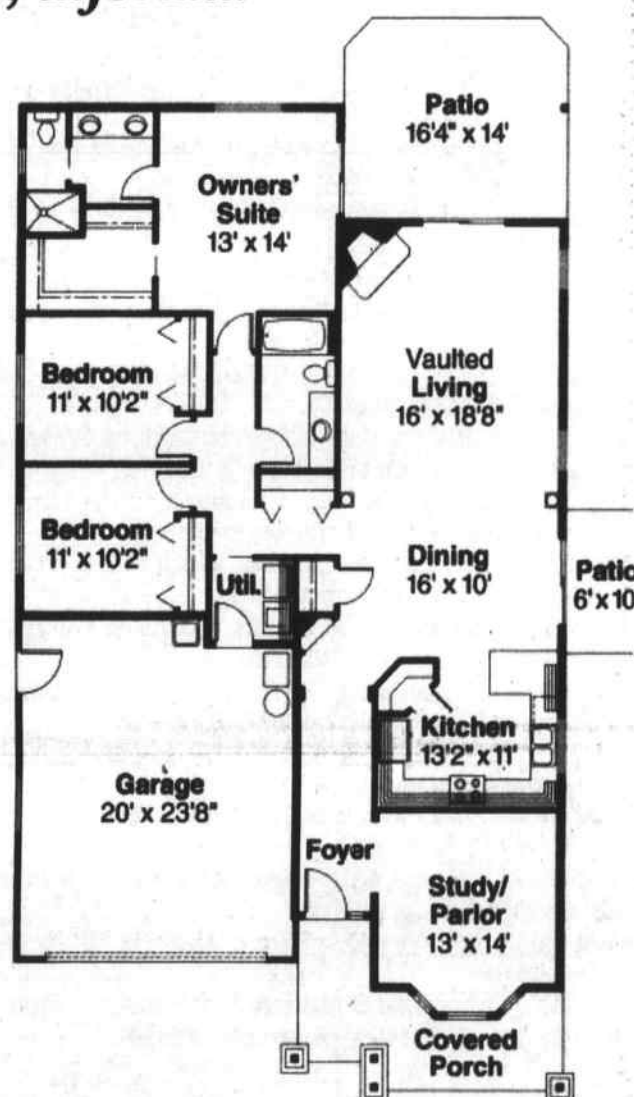

Family living spaces fill the right side of the home, where all but the front room are joined in one comfortably large, informal living area. That bayed front room can be furnished as a study, parlor, library or whatever suits your fancy. If having a home office fits into your plans, adding interior and/or exterior doors would make this space ideal.

The kitchen is both large and efficient. Sink, stove and refrigerator form a tight work triangle, while counter space wraps around three sides. A step-in pantry boosts storage space, and the short peninsula could be outfitted as an eating bar, if desired.

Sliders in the dining area open onto a small side patio. Round columns, with a high display shelf above, mark the boundary between the dining room and the spacious, vaulted living room. The gas fireplace, nestled in a rear corner, provides warmth and color on dreary days and long dark nights. Nearby sliders access a larger, partially covered patio, also accessible from the owners' suite.

The Bergstrom's centrally located bathroom and laundry room provide sound buffering between sleeping areas and gathering spaces. The pass-through utility room doubles as a mudroom and comes in handy for unloading groceries in the dark or in inclement weather.
